

Cupid Works Overtime During Xmas Vacation

Ten Betrothals Swell List Of Starry-Eyed Couples

Romance makes the news on the campus in this post-holiday period as ten L. V. students announce their engagements over the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Rhoads, Gap, Pa., announces the engagement of their daughter, E. Kathryn Rhoads, to Harold E. Boyer, son of Mr. Floyd Boyer, of Reading, Pa. "Kitty," a senior pre-med student, and Harold, a junior pre-dental student, are a well-known couple on L. V. campus. Harold will enter the University of Pennsylvania Dental School in the fall. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Whitman, Rexmont, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth E. Whitman, to William Yingst, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Paul Yingst, Lebanon, R. D., on December 31. Ruth and Bill, a senior and a junior at L. V., are Chemistry majors. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Eyster, of Davidsburg, Pa., announce the betrothal of their daughter, Kathleen M. Eyster, to William Albrecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Albrecht, Hungerford, Pa., on December 25. Miss Eyster attended Lebanon Valley College last year and is now employed at York, Pa. Bill is a senior chemistry major at the Valley. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Miller, Annville, Pa., announced the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Miller, to Paul Spangler, son of Mrs. Earl Schmuck, of York, Pa., on December 25. Phyl attended L. V. in 1946-47 and is now employed in Lebanon. Paul is a junior Biology major at the Valley. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Koons, Heggies, Pa., announced the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Koons, to Donald V. Malick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Malick, Chester, Pa., on December 25. Miss Koons is a graduate of Heggies High School and is now employed in Heggies. Don is a pre-med student at L. V. and will graduate with the class of '49. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hobart Shank, Waynesboro, Pa., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lois J. Shank, to Joseph Yeakel.

New Editor and Staff Take Over La Vie; Three Freshmen Added

Following a wave of resignations due to increased pressure of curricular work, the new LA VIE staff took over with this issue. Ronald Baker, the resigning editor, was replaced by Martha Matter, who is also editor of the Quittie. George Ely was moved up to associate editor. Although previously listed as a reporter, he has worked in an editorial capacity this year. Dick Pye, at his own request, has been relieved of his former job, but will continue reporting.

Three freshmen, who have, during this past semester, demonstrated their capability and worthiness of becoming permanent members of the staff, were added to the masthead. They are Louis Fried, Glenn Woods and Jay Flocken.

Several other changes of positions have been made and the set-up of the masthead simplified.

CHRISTIAN COLLEGE SPIRIT TO BE RELIGIOUS EMPHASIS WEEK THEME

Chairman Joe Yeakel Announces Contest For Seal Design As Promotional Stunt

"The Spirit of a Christian College" has been chosen as the theme for Religious Emphasis Week, March 8-11. This was announced by Joseph H. Yeakel, who is the Student Chairman, and has been working diligently since the beginning of the year with Mr. Gockley, to the organization meeting of committees which was held Thursday, January 15, in Engle Hall. These committees are comprised of over 200 students from campus.

It was announced at this meeting that an extensive program had been outlined, but that in all probability, it would be revised in the near future. This program includes sub-themes for each day: Monday—"The Academic Spirit of a Christian College;" Tuesday—"The Social Spirit of a Christian College;" Wednesday—"The Religious Spirit of a Christian College;" Thursday—"The Challenge of a Christian College." He also told the committees that the speakers who would shoulder the main burden for the week had been chosen, but he pointed out that the success or failure of the week lay in the hands of the committees—that they were the ones who could make or break it.

To bring Religious Emphasis Week more to the front, the Religious Coordinating Council, the sponsor and backer of Religious Emphasis Week, announced a contest to be held for the purpose of obtaining a seal for the group. This contest opened on Thursday, January 15, after 11:00 o'clock, and is open to all on campus. The seal must be original, containing a religious theme, and it must be turned in to Mr. Gockley's office, Room 209, in Washington Hall, not later than February 5. It is desired that the idea be done in a rough sketch and contain the name of the individual. This seal is to be used for all publications of the Religious Coordinating Council and for all printed material used during Religious Emphasis Week. Due to the nature of the organization which is sponsoring the contest, there will be no reward or prize, but the winner will have his name published in LA VIE, and a note will be included on the program for Religious Emphasis Week, stating the name of the winner.

Mrs. Laughlin Attends Meeting In New York

Mrs. Maud P. Laughlin attended the annual meeting of the American Sociological Society held December 28-30 at the Hotel Commodore in New York City. The meeting was attended by one thousand educators. Outstanding among the many notable reports was that of Dr. Cottrell, of Cornell University. Dr. Cottrell spoke on the changing family patterns.

Plans Now Underway For Glee Club Tour

Plans are now underway for the 1948 tour of the L. V. C. Glee Club. The group will leave the college on Sunday, February 8, 1948.

In addition to the Glee Club program, two special numbers will be inserted in the program. Flute solos will be rendered by Katherine Wersen between parts one and two, and a cornet trio, comprised of Ralph Downey, Kenneth Sampson, and Chester Richwine, will appear between parts two and three. Dorothy Kauffman is accompanist for the groups.

The groups will follow the itinerary listed below:

Sunday, February 8—Columbia.
Monday, February 9—Dallastown.
Tuesday, February 10—Red Lion.
Wednesday, February 11—Baltimore.

Thursday, February 12—Washington.

Friday, February 13—Hagerstown.

Saturday, February 14—Waynesboro.

Sunday, February 15—Shippensburg and Carlisle.

Lodging will be provided by the members of the various churches to be visited.

The following program will be presented, plus the special numbers, not yet available:

Miss Mary Gillespie Represents School At Meeting Of NASM

Miss Mary E. Gillespie represented the school at the 23rd annual meeting of the National Association of Schools of Music held recently at the Hotel Statler, Boston, Massachusetts. Highlight of the convention was an address by Dr. Howard Hanson, Director of the Eastman School of Music, in which he made a plea for a return of the creative approach to the arts.

Harry H. Pierson, consultant from the Institute of International Education in New York, addressed the convention on the topic of "The Exchange Student's Program in the Light of Recent Legislation." At the present time, 16,000 to 18,000 foreign students are studying abroad. Russia has not responded to advances in this respect and no bona fide American student is in the Russian orbit, nor is a Russian exchange student in an American college. While only one out of every 50 students is a musical student, many more applications for scholarships and fellowships are received from foreign students than can be filled.

The association is recognized by the American Council of Education as the only accrediting agency for schools of music in the United States. Its membership consists of more than one hundred and seventy of the foremost colleges, universities and conservatories.

Delphian Society Holds Birthday Party

Most Original Skit Awarded Box Of Candy

Following a brief business meeting on January 6, the girls in Delphian Literary Society held a birthday celebration for every member of the organization. Seated around appropriately decorated tables, each representing a month of the year, the members witnessed skits put on by each month's group. A prize, a box of candy, was awarded to May for having the most original presentation. Miss Pauline Sutton, Miss Ann Becker and Miss Doris Sponaule were the judges.

The tables were cleverly decorated by Doris Eckert, Ethel Mae Beam, Annette Read, and Pat Riihluoma. January's theme was a March of Dimes arranged around a picture of President Roosevelt with New Year's bells for favors. February displayed pictures of Washington and Lincoln and also had a Valentine motif. March's table was gay with the green of St. Pat, while April went in for the traditional showers. May's table looked like a miniature edition of the Lebanon Valley Campus on May Day as tiny dancers appeared to cavort around a be-ribboned pole.

The spirit of '76 lent July a festive air. School supplies and all day suckers provided amusement for September, while October, November, and December had Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas themes respectively.

Reflections

Have you noticed the big, broad grin illuminating the countenance of Uncle Joe Stalin these days? No cynical grin this, nor is its etiology traceable to a mirthful source. Uncle Joe is just plain happy, and the Politburo and the U. S. Com-mies are happy with him. The reason for Uncle Joe's pleasant state of mind: he has his radio tuned to the American wave length where he can listen to all of the standard news broadcasts, thus securing all the information that his agents are unable to obtain. The news that Uncle Joe has been hearing is of the type to make any dyed-in-the-red Bolshevik kasatsky for joy.

Through the medium of the American news broadcasts, Uncle Joe has learned that the American corn and grain harvests are far from being large enough to answer the demands of both Europe and America, and that conservancy to the point of sacrifice must be practiced in America if Europe is to be carried through the winter. These same reports indicate that all America is behind the movement to sacrifice to help feed Europe, as long as that sacrifice does not impinge the prosperity of some particular group. When this happens (as some of the proposed measures already have) the brewers, meat packers, and retail grocer associations, the labor groups, and the manufacturers squint down their sights and let go with, "impractical," "straws in the wind," "a fatal blow to our national economy." Yes, Uncle Joe is looking mighty happy these days.

The night before the test, make all necessary notes on the back of the fingernails. If the instructor suspects something, feign nervousness and quickly bite off the fingernails. The only drawback to this system is that to make the three-inch nails inconspicuous, it is essential that the student disguise himself either as Fu Manchu or as a woman student. The former is impractical, the latter dangerous. Also, last year, two students who thought they would be detected chewed their nails off too fast and slit their throats from the inside out.—Polytech Reporter.

Dear Editor:

In your December 18 issue of LA VIE, you carried four columns of type headed "Football Season Resume." This article went step by step through the campaign of last fall, with but one exception. There was no mention made of the Juniata game.

This, while naturally hurtful to an Indian's ego, is, in the judgment of the staff of the Juniatian, poor journalistic taste, as well as undue partiality in reporting events. I can assure you, the Dutchmen's recent 48-41 victory on the basketball court was faithfully recorded for all to see on the sports page of the Juniatian.

Since the sports department of LA VIE is evidently unaware of the facts of the game, I will take the liberty of providing a few.

The first quarter of the contest was little more than a sounding out by both sides. Lebanon Valley, finding itself on the J. C. 24, and stalled, called for a field goal by Walt Gage. The attempt was low. Later, in the second quarter, Juniata attempted one from the same position, Dzvonar kicking, which went wide of the mark. Scoring was started by Mike Dzvonar, which went wide of the mark. Scoring was started by Mike Dzvonar, Juniata Halfback, as he went over from the three, and then booted the extra point. Bob Hess, Valley halfback (who incidentally was voted by the squad to Juniata's all opponent team) provided the only score of the game for the Dutchmen as he took a pass on the J. C. 45 from Eckenroth, and eluded tacklers the whole way to pay dirt. Gage attempted and missed the extra point.

At the seven minute mark of the third quarter, J. C. added another, as reserve halfback Wasco Berzensky in three successive plays from the 17, all around and through the right side of the line, scored. Dzvonar kicked the extra point. The final score came deep in the last quarter as Wofflin, fullback, passed to Smith in the end zone for a td. Dzvonar had two attempts at the uprights, the second awarded for an offside penalty, and missed both. Thus ended the first Juniata defeat of a Lebanon Valley football team.

JESSE F. GARBER,
Managing Editor.

Dear Editor:

Attention to the Student Body and Faculty:

I am writing this letter to bring this really and truly ever present fact of the thoughtfulness, cooperation, and generosity of the fellows on our campus to all readers of LA VIE.

Although similar experiences have happened to you on or off the campus, I wish to bring to the foreground one such experience. Never was I so touched with any of my previous experiences as was I with the aftermath of the Jr. Sr. - Soph football game. My broken tooth seemed more a concern to the fellows playing the game than did the actual score of the game. To compensate for my loss, a group of the fellows kindly contributed to make up for the loss. This one experience has far surpassed any other ones that I have had in the service or any other time, and it is just one example of the stuff that a college man is made.

In closing this letter, I also wish to sincerely thank all who were so considerate of me at a time of need.

FRANK PULLI, Jr.

The Campus Is Talking About . . .

"S' WONDERFUL"—Isn't it?...to get back to the good old grind of breakfast at 7, rush to 8 o'clocks, worry about exams, study, study... ho, hum... after all, who would want to continue living as we did at home over the holidays... Why, we'd just be a bunch of old softies!

"LET IT SNOW, LET IT SNOW, ETC."—Yep, all those jokers who insisted upon "dreaming of a White Christmas" finally got their wish, probably to their undying sorrow! Especially folks like "Gerry" McKenna, the Fiorellos, Fred Manheck, Al Moriconi, to mention a few of our students who hail from N. Y. and N. J.-way... to quote Carolyn Boeddinghaus:—"Frank and I shovelled snow even while it was snowing; if we'd waited until it stopped, we couldn't even have looked out of the windows!" Back home here, several of our day students reported: "...Nancy Meyer—"We had no electricity for several days, and had to cook our meals with a blow torch! Nan Ulrich—"We resorted to cooking with old kerosene lamps... phooey on the "good old days"... Numerous others, deprived of all modern conveniences for a few days, confessed that perhaps all that snow would have been much more romantic if confined strictly to poetry and song!

A BREAK AND A MAKE—M. C. Salzman and Bob Miller have "hit the Road"... different roads!!! while Annette Read and Dick Knies, after separation, are affecting a reconciliation.

BEWILDERED—That's what we are about C. Pomraning and B. Frank—Sarah Zellers and Earl Williams, but that's what Bill Moore is about the teaching profession and running the Legion with classes sandwiched in for variety.

"LOVE'S OLD SWEET SONG"—That wee, but most important fellow, Dan Cupid, gave Santa plenty of assistance over the holidays, if the engagement-announcement and wedding-bell columns are any indication... heartiest congratulations to: newly-engaged Marty Ross and John Swope, Mary Louise Jagnow and Frank Hockley, Marian Geib and Jim Wilhelm.

"GOOD NEWS"—What a pleasant and most welcome surprise to find that the well-worn staircase of the "Ad" building (they were literally "in the groove") had been replaced with new, broad steps; also that at last the much-wished-for new lights had been installed in several rooms and in the halls—even though the face lifting process does involve a bit of noise and re-routing, the finished product will be well worth it.

"BLUE SKIES"—Will be the theme-song for all students, after the big, black cloud of Final Exams has safely passed, and we can all relax... that is, until the next ones come along.

New Faces On Faculty Row

REV. BRUCE C. SOUDERS

The Rev. Bruce C. Souders, Instructor in English, was born in Richland, Pennsylvania — that much is certain — but there is a wide divergence of opinion concerning the date. According to the Department of Vital Statistics, Mr. Souders was born December 20, 1920. His mother (and she ought to know) says Mr. Souders tells him it was December 27 of the same year. His own guess: Christmas day, 1920.

Not noticeably affected by the uncertainty of his birth date, Mr. Souders attended the Myerstown, Penna., grade schools with other children who had no such cross to bear. He graduated from Lebanon High School in 1939, where he devoted much of his time to music, both vocal and instrumental.

Mr. Souders entered Lebanon Valley College immediately following high school graduation, and graduated in 1944. While here as a student he was a member of the Green Blotter Club, LA VIE staff, and the Quittie staff.

He then entered the Bonebrake Theological Seminary, Dayton, O.,

HILBERT V. LOCHNER

Hilbert V. Lochner, instructor in Economics, was born the son of a Lutheran pastor in the little Canadian village of Wellesley, Ontario. After the death of his father, his mother returned with the children to Sherwood, Ohio, and later moved to Fort Wayne, Indiana, where he received most of his earlier education.

Mr. Lochner left high school to take a job in essential industry, but returned after the war to graduate in 1922. After graduation he joined the staff of a Fort Wayne daily newspaper as an illustrator, a talent which he had developed in high school publications.

Later he attended Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois, where he became a member of a swimming team which included Johnny Weissmuller, the Duke of Windsor, Arnie Borg of Sweden, Sybil Bauer and many other Olympic stars. He continued his education at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, until he met the young lady who is now his wife. "A romance followed," he ex-

Dutchmen To Meet Scranton U. Next Week On Scranton Court

Purple and White Averages Over 6 Feet Will Be Out To Avenge Football Defeat

Taking to the road next Saturday night, January 24, the Blue and White Cagers of Lebanon Valley oppose the Purple and White of Scranton University. At first glance, the record of the Royals does not appear impressive and is not. After winning their initial game against Connecticut State Teachers' College, they have dropped eight in a row. Moreover, they were outscored by large margins in all but two of these games.

However, Coach Mease is expecting a great struggle for several reasons. One, all the quints that have engaged the Royals thusfar are out of the class of the Valleymen; two, the Scranton boys remember the beating handed them by the Flying Dutchmen and are out for revenge; and three, the Miners are playing a 27-game schedule. The ambitious schedule shows that they have a better team than they have evidenced thus far, and the law of averages should begin working for them. After this paper goes to press, Scranton takes on LaSalle, Seton Hall, Manhattan, Loyola of Baltimore, and Albright in succession within the eight days preceding their tilt with the Dutchmen.

Outstanding among the Royals are: Guard Mike Denoia, who recently held big Jim Lacy of Loyola, second-highest scorer in the nation last year, to one field goal and two free throws. Mike was also second-highest scorer in the first seven games, and last year led his team in scoring with 280 points.

Pete Medvecky, a freshman guard, is another Royal mainstay. A brilliant set-shot artist, his deadly eye has netted 63 points in the first seven contests to lead his team mates.

Center Tom Notchik has 32 points in six games, and last year totaled 200. Bill Griglock, another guard, has been hampered with injuries this season, but scored 207 points a year ago. Henry Koleski guard, and Pat McGeehan and John Barthowski, forwards, are other highly-regarded men in the Scranton aggregation.

In the all-important matter of height, the Royals average 6' 1" with nine men of a thirteen-man squad extending over the six-foot mark.

graduated this spring, and was ordained by the E. U. B. Church in October.

At present, Mr. Souders is living in Hershey with his wife's family until he can find a house or apartment in Annville. (Landlords and Realtors, please copy). Mrs. Souders is the former Patricia Bartell, whom he married shortly after her graduation from the Lebanon Valley Conservatory of Music in 1945.

His major avocation is music. While in high school he played string bass, tuba, and did some voice work. His public appearances are now limited to an occasional voice solo, but his musical tastes are catholic: "I like everything from Bach to Tin-pan Alley," says Mr. Souders, "including the musical satires of Spike Jones and Alec Templeton." He is also interested in dramatics and writing. He has had several items published in the Watchword and The Builders.

Mr. Souders is coaching the debating team on campus. "I hope to help put Lebanon Valley back on the map," he said, "and would appreciate assistance from students who share a similar desire."

Sensational LaSalle Five Hands Blue And White 77-43 Setback

La Salle College, city champions of Philadelphia, recent victor over last year's National Invitation champion—Utah, and one of the leading basketball powers of the nation, almost swept Lebanon Valley off the Lebanon High floor on Dec. 18 as they downed the Dutchmen 77-43.

The Explorers played one of the greatest games ever seen on the Lebanon boards as they ran, passed, and shot with unerring accuracy to hand the Valley their first defeat of the season.

However, the Dutchmen need not be dejected over this defeat. They were an outclassed team from the opening whistle as La Salle dumped in 9 points before the Valley could tally. The Philly flyers gave some 2,500 spectators basketball at its best. Playing firehouse style, the Explorers burnt up the boards as they raced up and down the court to drop in 2-pointers in precision like style.

Basketball tongues are still wagging in this section because La Salle apparently has one of the best teams in the east, if not the best. As for the Dutchmen, they put up a gallant though helpless fight against terrific odds. Charley McGlone's Explorers had too much height and experience for the Measemen to cope with. They controlled both back-boards and blocked many shots the Valley threw up from the inside.

The game took on an ominous note from the first minute of play. The favored Philly five jumped into a 22-6 first-quarter lead and continued to dominate play throughout the game, though L. V., largely through the efforts of Pete Gamber, did manage to out-score the visitors by one point in the final period. Floyd Becker was high man for the Dutchmen with 10 points. Marsh Gemberling also contributed 9 markers to the losing cause.

Coach Ralph Mease's basketballers met with probably the most disheartening defeat of the season on Dec. 20 at Easton when they dropped a heart-breaking 38-36 defeat to Lafayette in the final 70 seconds of play. The game, the lowest scoring contest the Dutchmen have played to date, was to all intents and purposes "in the bag" for the Valley at the start of the final period, but the Leopards held the Dutchmen to a meager 5 points while scoring 13 to cop the contest.

For the Dutchmen, who held the upper hand for most of the going, the Lafayette defeat was a bitter pill to swallow. A victory would have meant added prestige to the Dutchmen; as things now stand it's just a blot on an otherwise near perfect record.

L. V. had a 6 point, 31-25 lead going into the last period and was well on the way to an upset victory, but that final session proved to be the Valley downfall. Lafayette put on the pressure and found the range for 13 points, the highest they scored in any quarter that evening, as they held L. V. to its lowest scoring quarter of 5 points.

Rinso Marquette was the individual Valley star. He was high-scorer for the night with 16 points. Floyd Becker canned 8 points. In the way of team scoring, each squad tallied 12 points by way of free throws. Lafayette outscored the Dutchmen from the field 13 field goals to 12, which meant the margin of victory.

SENIOR PERSONALITY OF THE WEEK

"Be" Frank's first claim to fame, as all wayward co-eds have discovered, is the title of President of Women's Student Government Association. (Jiggerboard to you!)

Mary Elizabeth, the versatile French major, finds time to participate in Wig and Buckle, W.A.A., Y.W.C.A., Clio, Radio Workshop and the Student-Faculty Committee. Wait, we're out of breath!

She even has time for hobbies, indicated by her enthusiasm for sports, especially basketball, knitting and dramatics. In this last vein "Be" has proven her ability by acting in "January Thaw," "Gertie Goes Plain," and "The Bronze Lady."

"Be" came to Lebanon Valley after her graduation from New Cumberland High School in 1944. That was in the days of a small enrollment, which, according to "Be," has definite advantages.

What else can we say, but good luck and success to an all-round girl!

GOOD BUYING

is a part of

Good Telephone Service

at Low Cost

SUPPOSE WE WERE BUYING APPLES—instead of telephone equipment—for the people of Pennsylvania.

You would expect us to buy (a) good apples at (b) a favorable price. You wouldn't expect us to pay 10c per apple if three good apples could be bought for 25c . . . or if 300 good apples could be bought for $21.00.

We are guided by this same principle in buying telephone equipment—wire and cable, switchboards and insulators, telephone instruments and dial mechanisms.

We insist, above all, on good equipment, for only with good equipment can we provide good telephone service, and only with good equipment can costs be kept low. We seek a favorable price, for a favorable price also helps us to keep your telephone bills down.

That's why we do most of our buying through Western Electric, supply unit of the Bell System. We know that Western Electric equipment—and the equipment that Western Electric buys elsewhere—meets our standards. And because Western Electric furnishes equipment in such large quantities to all operating companies within the Bell System, we can buy what we need at prices substantially lower than we would have to pay elsewhere for equipment of like quality.

Good buying, in short, is simply one more reason why you have the best possible telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

Valley Five Tops E-Town, 67-63 To Snap 2-Game Losing Streak

Flashy Floyd Becker Sparks Victory Dutchmen's Play At Times Erratic

Lebanon Valley's Flying Dutchmen got back on the glory road last Saturday night when they registered a 67-63 victory over Elizabethtown College to give L. V. a perfect slate of 2 wins against no defeats against E-town this '47-'48 campaign. It was a hard-fought, harum-scarum game that bristled with action from start to finish.

The contest, a nip-and-tuck affair, had a capacity crowd in a lather of excitement for most of the evening. The story of the game can be summarized in three words: Too much Becker. Fabulous Floyd was banging in 2-pointers from all angles and was especially proficient on sets from the right side. His deft shooting was a sight-to-see as he completely stole the spotlight from E-town's Frankie Keath. Frankie's showing against L. V. was hardly anything to swoon over. He scored 6 field goals and 4 fouls for 16 points. During the game he took 28 shots and made good only 6, which gives him an average of about 22%.

At times the play of the Dutchmen was erratic and the effects of a 3 week layoff were clearly visible. But this could be expected, and in the final analysis the Valley just had too much for Elizabethtown as they matched everything E-town could offer, and then some.

From the opening buzzer play was fast and rough. With Becker and DiJohnson leading the way, the Dutchmen equaled their hosts point for point and as the game went into intermission the Valley had a 3 point pull—33-30. In the first half DiJohnson played terrific ball under the E-town basket as he faked opposing players out of their shoes to tally from under the basket to keep L. V. out in front.

Elizabethtown came back in the third quarter to out-score the Valley and the teams were deadlocked 49 all at the start of the final period. With Becker still spearheading the Valley offense, the Dutchmen pulled away to a 10 point lead midway in the session, but George Waltz, E-town guard, got a "hot-hand" and everything he tossed up was labeled "two points." However, all this was to no avail; for George soon cooled off and the Valley still held a slim lead. Content with this lead, the Measemen played come-and-get-it and employed a slow freeze to end the game for the third L. V. triumph against two defeats.

Sports In Shorts

Basketball is next on the agenda of sports for girls. The intra-mural round-robin tournament began on Tuesday, January 13. Each dorm has a representative team, and will compete with the teams from other dorms. This is a chance for all the girls who are unable to participate in intercollegiate basketball to get rid of some of that excess energy, so come on, all you "has-beens" and "shall-bees," come out and lead your dorm to victory.

The schedule for the intramural games to be played in the college gym is as follows:

January 12—7 P. M.
February 18—7:30 P. M.
February 25—7:30 P. M.
February 26—4 P. M.

Twelve Game Schedule Faces LVC Sextet

Only Three Veterans Back For Coach Sponaugle

Cries of "cut for the basket" and "get off your feet" can be heard coming from the gym, as the girls' intercollegiate basketball season gets under way. Although only three members of last season's team have reported for practice, the season should be a fairly successful one, for the old L. V. C. spirit is prominent among all the members of the team.

The team this year has height, but lacks experience; however, plenty of team work, and the will to win should bring at least five victories from the 12 games scheduled for this year.

As a preview of the 1948 season, L. V. defeated Annville High by a score of 32-20, in a practice game played on January 12.

On Wednesday, January 14, L. V. played their first game of the season with its rival sister college—Albright. Last year the Dutchgirls sextet defeated the Albright lassies by a score of 22 to 21, and a victory is expected for this season. However, when this paper went to press, the score of the game was unknown.

Girls who reported for practice are: Bonnie Keller, Doris Thomas, Butch Bell, Sue Williams, Betty Edelman, Rena Miller, B. J. Slifer, Connie Nestor, Elaine Frock, Hazel Hackman, Fay Hall, Hazel Kinney, Joan Whiting, Louise Light, Be Frank, Helen MacFarland, Doris Hyman, Jan Weaver, Opal Shumate, Joyce MacAllister, and Helen Shetler.

The schedule for the 1948 season is:

Jan. 14—Albright—4 P. M.—Varsity and J. V.
*Jan. 17—Elizabethtown—7 P. M.—Varsity.
*Jan. 31—Lock Haven—2 P. M.—Varsity and J. V.
Feb. 4—Millersville—7 P. M.—Varsity and J. V.
Feb. 9—Elizabethtown—7 P. M.—Varsity.
Feb. 12—Shippensburg—7:30 P. M.—Varsity.
*Feb. 16—Moravian—7 P. M.—Varsity.
*Feb. 19—Millersville—7 P. M.—Varsity and J. V.
Feb. 24—Lock Haven—4 P. M.—Varsity and J. V.
*Mar. 2—Shippensburg—7:30 P. M.—Varsity.
Mar. 6—Gettysburg—2 P. M.—Varsity.

He received his Master of Arts degree from the University of Pennsylvania Graduate School in 1942 and immediately thereafter was appointed a representative and recruiting examiner for the U. S. After the war, Mr. Lochner again returned to the classroom—this time to the Dickinson Law School, where he remained until a teaching vacancy presented itself at his old Alma Mater. He began his duties here at Lebanon Valley at the beginning of the previous summer session. Of Lebanon Valley Dr. Lochner says: "It has always been my view that Lebanon Valley offers a cordiality that is not surpassable anywhere."

Professor F. K. Miller Receives Doctorate from Univ. of Penna.

Thesis Entitled "The Rise Of An Iron Town" Wins Ph.D. For History Department Head

Professor Frederick K. Miller was awarded his Ph.D. degree by the University of Pennsylvania during ceremonies held in Philadelphia on Saturday, February 7.

Dr. Miller joined the faculty as acting professor of History in 1939, filling the vacancy created by the death of Dr. E. H. Stevenson. He has been with the college since then with the exception of a two-year period from 1943 to 1945 when he was in the U.S. Army. Immediately following his discharge, he was made head of the History Department.

A graduate of Lebanon High School, Dr. Miller received his A.B. from Lebanon Valley in 1929. He carried on his graduate study in History at the University of Pennsylvania and received his Master's degree from that institution in 1931.

After completing residence requirements for his Ph.D., he joined the staff of Lebanon High School as a teacher and coach of basketball.

Following a series of unique incidents, which, according to the university authorities, had never happened before to a Ph.D. candidate, his thesis on "The Rise of an Iron Town, An Economic History of Lebanon County to 1865," was accepted and printed.

Dr. Miller, in addition to serving on many faculty and student committees, is active in various community organizations such as the American Historical Association, Pennsylvania Historical Association, and the Lebanon County Historical Society. He is secretary and librarian of the latter group.

College Dance Band Provides Outlet For Aspiring Arrangers

Functions As "Lab" in Course for Swingwriters

Under the direction of Professor Frank Stachow, the newly-organized college dance band made its debut at the Veterans' Administration Hospital, Lebanon, last Wednesday night, February 4. Included in their program, which was in the nature of a jazz concert, were vocals by George Ritner, a member of the Glee Club, and piano selections by Dorothea Cohen. Ritner also served as Master of Ceremonies.

This newest of campus musical organizations is the outgrowth of a course in Dance Orchestration being offered by the Conservatory

Radio Workshop Airs First In Weekly Series

Leading off with a fifteen-minute documentary drama entitled "Meet Lebanon Valley College," the Radio Workshop began its weekly series of broadcasts last Thursday morning. Workshop members re-enacted the Church Conference meeting which founded Lebanon Valley, and gave a dramatized description of the college as it is today. The program was produced through the facilities of WLBR in Lebanon, co-sponsor of the group.

Marycarol Salzman directed the first program, which was written by George Ely. Included in the cast were: James Yeingst, Glenn Hall, Robert McCoy, Jeanne Bozarth, Richard Caler, and Joanne Kessler.

According to a program schedule released last week, the Workshop will go on the air at 11:15 every Thursday morning during the remainder of the school year. Each broadcast will deal with a different aspect of campus life, with the exception of a program scheduled for today entitled "History in the Making in Lebanon County." Other programs will be based on such topics as Veterans in College, May Day, the Music Festival, College Dramatics, and Winter and Spring Sports.

Mystery Play Chosen and Cast For Kalo - Delphian Anniversary

Jeanne Bozarth And Karl Miller To Star; Audience-Jury Will Decide Drama's Ending

The play, Night of January 16th, has been selected by the Delphian and Kalozetean Literary Societies to be presented as part of their Anniversary weekend.

With announcement of the members who will take the parts, and with rehearsals already started, the production, scheduled for March 12, is now well under way, according to James Brulatour, who is directing the play.

This is a play without a heroine in the technical sense of the word; however, Jeanne Bozarth has been chosen for the leading feminine part, that of Karen Andre, defendant in the murder trial. Nor has the play a hero, the principal male role being that of the prosecuting attorney, which will be taken by Karl Miller. The cast which has been chosen is:

Prison Matron Erma Gainer
Bailiff Sam Rutherford
Judge Heath George Roman
District Attorney Flint, Karl Miller
His Secretary Dorothy Thomas
Defense Attorney Stevens

Steven Crowell

His Secretary
Mary Ellen Budesheim
Clerk of the Court

Francis Eigenbrode

Karen Andre Jeanne Bozarth
Dr. Kirkland John C. Smith
Mrs. John Hutchins. Grace Laverty
Homer Van Fleet, William Ferguson
Elmer Sweeney, Daniel Fraunfelder
Nancy Lee Faulkner, Anne Shroyer
Magda Svenson ... Kathleen Garis
John Graham Whitfield

Richard Peifer

Jane Chandler Joanne Kessler
Sigurd Jungquist

Donald Anglemeyer

Larry Regan Robert Fisher
Roberta Van Rensselaer

Carolyn Boeddinghaus

Stenographer ... Thelma Musselman
Twelve important members of the cast remain to be chosen, but they, fortunately, need no rehearsing and will be selected from the audience on the night of the performance. They are the jury who will listen to the evidence and render the verdict on which will depend which of the two endings written for the play will be used.

Green Blotter Club Meets

The Green Blotter Club met at Dr. and Mrs. Struble's home on the evening of January 14. Frank Huff and Albert Moriconi each presented two original poems. Ted Keller read an original short story and Joanne Kessler, a poem. Those present were Marion Schwalm, Barbara Christianson, Joanne Kessler, Donald Paine, Albert Moriconi, Ted Keller, Frank Huff, Martha Matter, and Dr. and Mrs. Struble. Mr. Souder was the evening's guest. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Struble and the meeting came to a close at eleven o'clock.

Dr. Struble Completes Pageant Manuscript For May Day Program

'The Devil Is An American' Will Be Theme Of Festival

Early New England, The Colonial Period of the South, and the wild and woolly west, will provide the settings for the 1948 May Day program on May 8. Professor George G. Struble has completed the story for the production, which is called "The Devil Was An American."

Through the medium of the dance with some pantomime, the audience will follow the Devil and his imps thru adventures in three sections of America—In New England, the devil in the guise of a shyster lawyer will encounter Daniel Webster. In the deep south, the devil, a slave trader, steps into the pages of Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to meet Uncle Tom himself and that notorious skinflint, Simon Legree.

"Ah Wilderness" Cast Begins Rehearsals

The "Wilderness" cast of Eugene O'Neill's play opened rehearsals last week. The cast, composed of veteran actors of the Valley stage under the able direction of Professor Geo. H. Struble, should make this one of the best productions in many seasons.

The performance dates have been set for April 22 and 23, giving ample time for rehearsal to "suit the word to the action and action to the word," and insure a polished performance.

A large number of committees have been set up enabling all members of the club to participate in some phase of the production.

Opening Of "Club 13" With All-Star Floor Show Tomorrow Night

Afraid of black cats, crossing your path? Scared of breaking a mirror? It's a sure guarantee of safety and a night of fun—a night at the Club 13, that is—W.A.A.'s night club dance of the year to be held tomorrow night, Friday the 13th, at the Annville high gym, from 8:30 to 12. Music will be rendered by the maestro Eddie Englehart and a full schedule of entertainment is on the evening's program.

Pete Barcia will act as master of ceremonies; the versatile and talented Marycarol Salzman will render an interpretive dance. Those "jitterbugs," Harry Hoffman and Faye Kraut, will demonstrate a sample of their fancy footwork. The songstress for the evening will be Jan Weaver, whose specialty is the blues number. Progress Being Made By R.E.W. Committees Outstanding progress has been made by the committees on Religious Emphasis Week. Prominent speakers have been selected, among whom are many interesting personalities.

Miss Helen K. Mosier, recently appointed Director of the National Student Y.W.C.A. in the Middle Atlantic Region, is listed as one of the guests. Miss Mosier received her B.A. in Sociology and Psychology from the University of Illinois in 1937. In 1920 she completed the requirements for an M.A. in Religious Education at Northwestern University and continued on to receive Ph.D.'s in three different subjects, Religious Education, Dean's Course, and Student Personnel. Miss Mosier's varied occupational background includes experiences as a teacher of English, Pastor's Assistant, Instructor in Religious Education, Editorial Assistant to the Association of American Colleges, Director of Education, Counsellor at the University of Minnesota, and USO-YWCA work in five different states.

At a recent meeting of the Student-Faculty Council it was learned that this organization had no power to enforce its decisions. In an effort to obtain this power the Council has sent letters to the heads of campus organizations asking them to hold meetings to determine the opinions of their organizations and relay said opinions to the Council at its next meeting. The letter states: It is our opinion that the Student-Faculty Council should be a co-ordinating body for all campus organizations. They should not only have the authority to avoid conflicts of scheduled events, but also to direct student opinion through the proper channels so that the entire campus may be properly co-ordinated to the satisfaction of the greater majority. This request, couched in innocent-sounding but high-handed terms, if granted, could have dangerous results.

We agree that the Council should have authority to avoid conflict of scheduled events if all campus bodies are allowed to have representatives on the Council; however, college students are supposed to be mature enough to be able to formulate their own opinions without having to have them "directed." As it stand now, the Council is representative neither of the student body nor of the faculty, and to grant it authority to carry out its decisions would be to concentrate too much power in the hands of too small a group. Even if the group were enlarged by the addition of the organizations not now represented, it would still be easy for the members to form blocs to push action through. The members of the Council now appear to present their own opinions rather than those of the groups which they supposedly represent, and thus the "greater majority" is not necessarily satisfied. As to the proper co-ordination of the campus—just what does this mean? The term could be amplified to cover a multitude of sins. Besides which, each individual is sure to have a different idea of just what is "proper."

We suggest that the Student-Faculty Council confine itself to the avoidance of conflict of scheduled events and that it act as a clearing-house for complaints of the students against the faculty and vice versa, rather than trying to run the whole campus. We suggest that it let the individual organizations solve the problems peculiar to their type of group and allow the students to form their own opinions.

L.V. Debating Club To Meet Lock Haven

The L.V.C. debating club opens its season Friday and Saturday of this week with practice debates against Lock Haven State Teachers College. The Valley debaters will be debating both sides of the national question, "Resolved that some form of World Government should be established." The debates should prove both interesting and informative, and every one is invited to attend. The time and place of debate will be announced on Friday.

On February 19th, the negative team of Juniata College will debate the Valley affirmative here, followed by a two-man team from Albright College on February 20. Other debates with Elizabethtown, Shippensburg, and Temple University have been arranged for March.

Though most people are under the impression that the football season has long since passed, there still seem to be a few matters that need to be cleared up concerning this past campaign. As the readers will no doubt recall, there appeared in the last issue of LA VIE a letter from Jesse Garber, Managing Editor of the Juniata, student publication of Juniata College, who inquired about the "omission" of an account of the Juniata football game in the Football Resume published in the Xmas issue of LA VIE. His criticism was entirely justified, but I feel that most people are under the impression that the "omission" of the game was intentional, which doesn't happen to be the case.

I wrote a letter to Jesse and stated my side of the story, which is this: The "omission" of the game was not the fault of myself or the LA VIE staff, but it was an error on the part of the printer. If you will read the story again closely and notice where an account of the Juniata game should be given you will find that the lead sentence begins thus: "The big let-down of the campaign came in one of the most dramatic upsets of this or any other football season." Following this my write-up continues to relate about the Scranton game which L. V. won. A lead sentence for winning our biggest game of the year wouldn't begin—The big let-down. This sentence was the beginning of my story on the Juniata game, which was somehow cut out, and the Scranton game was added under the sentence.

This past week I received a letter from Jesse Garber, and it read in part: "I think your letter cleared up the situation. Believe me, we can appreciate your alibi! There is more friction between writers and printers than in-laws. Your write-up that you had intended was excellent. It would have satisfied any Indian rooster. The Dutchmen should realize that they were probably the best scouted of any team on our schedule. Our coach, Bill Smaltz, former Penn State fullback, played three games in his career against Kerr-coached Colgate, and played for him in the Shrine game in 1941. We should know better than Smaltz what to expect from the patriarch. Make no mistake, though, we know the honeymoon is over and that next year's game will be entered with the Dutchmen "up."

I believe that this letter should end each and all discussions about football and wrap up any loose ends until next season.

WHAT IS MANAGEMENT?

ORGANIZING

DIRECTING

MANAGEMENT, in the telephone business, is essentially a word. It defines the duties and responsibilities of telephone men and telephone women who have shown by their abilities that they can undertake them.

Those who supervise the organizing, planning, financing, and directing of this business, in other words, are simply telephone employees at various stages in their careers.

That's the way things are done in the telephone business. Any employee who shows the qualities of leadership will find that those qualities are bound to be recognized.

This opportunity for advancement is a natural incentive to good work, but it is also your assurance of good telephone service at low cost. For the telephone business is complex, and the special skills and arts that are required to run it are learned only on the firing line of experience.

Tomorrow's leaders in this business are today working with and under the direction of yesterday's employees.

L.V.'s Pennant Chances Hinge on Outcome of Game at Albright

Blue and White Five Face High Scoring Duo On Foreign Court; Have Dropped 3 to Lions

Following two successive home games, the Flying Dutchmen travel to Reading on Saturday night to oppose the very formidable Albright Lions.

This game is a "must" for the pennant in the Western Division of necessity, this writeup was written two days before the all-important LVC-Juniata and Moravian-Albright games, which may have a bearing on league standings.

The Blue and White are out to stop the Lions. Including last year, the Dutchmen have dropped three straight games to them, and confidently expect to turn the tables at last.

However, the Valley cagers will have their hands full in their effort to stop high-scoring Eddie Anlian and Ossie Kreibel. Between them they tallied 37 of the 49 points caged by the Lions in their 49-47 conquest of the Dutchmen just one month ago. Also to be watched is Gulden, a great set-shot artist.

At first appearance, the Albright record does not appear to be anything to enthuse over, but a glance at the outstanding quintets they have opposed and battled on fairly even terms should make you realize that they have an outstanding aggregation. At present their record stands at 5 victories and 7 defeats in their over-all competition, but a 3 and 1 record in league play. Recently they have defeated Moravian, 57-46, and lost to LaSalle, 68-30, and Seton Hall, 60-53.

Interesting to watch will be the battle between Ray "Tiny" Kline and "Ossie" Kriebel, rival towering centers.

With the Dutchmen

We knew it couldn't last forever! When a team has lost four games by a total of only ten points, something is bound to change. And change it did last Saturday! Having dropped four games out of five, the Dutchmen didn't let their inability to hold a lead get them down. Their team spirit has been great and if they can get by Albright on Saturday, they could very well annex the Western Division crown. Winning only three of their first eight games, nothing except overconfidence and injuries should keep the Blue and White from a seven and one record in their remaining eight games.

Great tribute should be paid to Coach Ralph Mease for bringing his men along as he has. He was well pleased with the showing of his team last Saturday against the Greyhounds. Especially was he pleased with the excellent condition of the men, who ran a running Moravian team right into the floor and won going away. Coach Mease was lavish in his praise of Bobby Hess and the great floor game he turned in. We feel that Bobby's entrance into the game was the turning point. Captain Marquette, who played the entire game, Bill "Whitey" Brunner, and Floyd Becker were others who played exceptionally well defensively and offensively. Becker was almost uncanny in his set shots. If he can maintain that pace in the Albright game, the Valley might very well be the victors. At least, we think so.

Here are some statistics on the team through the first nine games. The six top scorers are thus:

	FG	F	T
Becker	57	10	124
Marquette	30	32	92

Valley if they hope to capture the Middle Atlantic Conference. Of

Gemberling	26	10	71
DiJohnson	22	12	38
R. Hess	18	7	43
Kline	15	8	38

The Valley has garnered 483 points as opposed to their opponents' total of 481, or an average of 36.7 points per game to 53.44 points per game for their rivals.

Valley foul shooting average stands at 57.5%, while their opponents have sunk 54.3% of their free throw attempts.

In closing, we want to pay tribute to Elizabethtown's Frankie Keith, who keeps on racking up the points and leading the state scorers by a margin of about 75 points. His total now is around 365 points. Frank is a great competitor and team player, but our opinion is that his title as scoring champion will be somewhat cheapened as a result of his team playing such teams as Gallandet College and Towson State Teachers twice each. Lebanon Valley, incidentally, twice held Keith to 16 points; his lowest point totals all season.

Unnoticed through all this may have been the record that our Jay-Vees, under Coach Danny Seiverling, are piling up. Their record now stands at six wins and two losses. Outstanding on the squad are Larry Kinsella and Charley Zimmerman, who usually tally approximately half of their team's total. Both should be welcome additions to Coach Mease next season.

Religious Emphasis Week

Contributing Editor of the Christian Endeavor World, and many other religious periodicals, is also listed on the agenda. In addition to having an impressive list of colleges and occupational experiences behind him, Dr. Veh has written several books, among which are: Thumbnail Sketches of Evangelical Bishops, Sketches on Bishop's Thumbsails, Interesting Evangelical Churches, and Spiritual Resources for Youth in the Pre-Easter Season. Dr. Veh was also a representative of the Evangelical Church at the First World Conference of Christian Youth at Amsterdam, Holland, in 1939.

The third speaker to be publicized this week is Professor Forrest H. Kirkpatrick, Dean of students and Professor at Bethany College, also personnel management consultant for industrial and business organizations. Professor Kirkpatrick is active in the literary field as a contributor to many professional and technical journals, and was listed in "Leaders in Education (1941)" and "Who's Who in Commerce and Industry (1947)." The campus ex-GI's will be interested to learn that Professor Kirkpatrick was technical consultant for the War Manpower Commission (1943-1945) and Lecturer at the Adjutant General's School (USA) in 1944-1945.

It is impossible to list all the attributes of these distinguished future guests of L.V., but these brief sketches are a hint of the dynamic program the committees for Religious Emphasis Week have planned

Anniversary Officers Elected By Kalo; Gloat Over Philo

At the first meeting of the new semester elections for the Kalo Anniversary Officers took place. Elections were held under the direction of President Rinso Marquette. The anniversary officers elected were: President, Karl Miller; and Vice President, Benny Penturelli. By unanimous action, Kalo members reinstated the "scribe" and the "money grabber" at their old jobs. Because of Dick Moller's love being on campus and not necessitating letter writing, it was that he could adequately fulfill the position. Also Bill Keeler, holder of Kalo's large fortune, has plans for a new Buick.

Once again the plans for the Anniversary Dance were battled back and forth. After a bloody battle, the final decision proclaimed the Hotel Hershey's Spanish Room as the scene with the characters exclusively attired in formal evening dress. The meeting adjourned after once again rejoicing over Philo's inability to uphold Kalo's challenge.

Symphony Orchestra To Repeat Concert

The Symphony Orchestra of the Conservatory will present a repeat performance of the concert of January 16, 1948, in the Lititz High School auditorium, Lititz, Penna., on February 24.

The group, under the able baton of Prof. E. P. Rutledge, will render the same program as their previous concert. The solo numbers for this concert will be:

Robert Fisher	Violin
"Meditation"—from "Thais"
Massenet
"Cavote"	Kramer
"Mazurka"	Myllarski
Accompanist, Charles Yeagly
Ralph Downey, Kenneth Sampson,
Chester Richwine	Cornet Trio
"The Triumphate"	E. Williams
Accompanist, Dorothy Kauffman
Katherine Wersen	Flute and Piccolo
"Rossignat"	Johannes Donjon
"The Skylark"	J. S. C. C.

Clio Elects Officers Changes Constitution

Joyce Meadows, senior conservite, was chosen to succeed Elaine Hellman as president of Clio at an election held on Thursday, Jan. 15. At this time Dorothy Zinc, a junior in the conserv, was elected vice-president, and Charlotte Rohrbach, sophomore pre-medical student, was chosen for the office of secretary. Beatrice Meiser will continue her duties as treasurer of the society. The new officers assumed their duties at the first meeting of the society this semester on Monday, February 2.

At the short business meeting preceding the anniversary party on Monday, Feb. 2, Ruth Whitman, senior chemistry student, was selected Anniversary President. Clio will celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding at a dance to be held April 24.

A change in the constitution of the society was also approved by the group. It was decided that in the future officers will not be changed at the end of each semester. Officers will retain their office throughout the school year.

Following the business meeting a social was held and refreshments were served.

The Campus Is Talking About . . .

"HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN"—Yes, indeed, now that semester exams are but a morbid memory, we can once again turn our efforts to the well-known "pursuit of happiness"—for some of us, that may mean giving little Danny Cupid a lot of help; for others, relaxing via basketball, movies, or just a good book!

"YOU WERE MEANT FOR ME:"—Could it be that both Bob Farly and Johnnie Hess are jockeying for position of high man in Phyllis Dale's life?... Large-economy-size Ray Kline, and vest-pocket edition Freshman—?

"PEOPLE WILL SAY WE'RE IN LOVE"—Not only will, but are saying it—about "Marty" Matter and "Pete" Ely—as far as they're concerned, folks, it's Spring, with all the trimmings! . . .

"ICE-CAPADES"—Looks as though LVC campus and dorms are really in costume, for the ice extravaganza of the year, produced, of course, by the best in the business—Dame Nature, and her assistant, Jack Frost—what with those huge, glittering icicles adorning buildings, trees, fences, etc. . . . mighty pretty, yes, but don't try standing directly under a bunch of 'em to admire their beauty—they're pretty tricky customers, and may decide to plunge into your two blue (or brown) eyes. . . .

"PARTING IS SUCH SWEET SORROW"—As evidenced by the fact that several of our very recent graduates have been paying visits back to their Alma Mater—one in particular, Rena Mae Miller (nee Biely), just can't seem to tear herself away—must be that good old nostalgic feeling that seems to go hand in hand with graduation time. . . .

"INFORMATION, PLEASE"—Word has recently reached these large, red ears that this column frequently misses some of the juicier items of gossip—well, we have a little favor to ask of all our interested readers:—here 'tis—any bit of gossip or news any one of you think would be a worthy addition to this column, please, PLEASE—write same on any old scrap of paper, shirt cuff, used blue book, discarded garter—hold on here!) . . . and drop it in the LA VIE COLLEGIENNE letter-box at Southeast end of hall in the Ad Bldg.—send no box tops, money, et al. . . . this is strictly for free. . . . seriously, though, we would appreciate all additions or corrections, starting as of NOW! We thank you. . . .

"I'LL FOLLOW MY SECRET HEART"—Ah, what memories of luv', swoon-stuff, and such this St. Valentine Day evokes!—Now there was a Joe had the right idea—treat the little lady right, a la Carmella Yannacci and Frances Heckman, and well—who knows what may develop! . . .

Reflections

One of the most disappointing aspects of the speeches of the presidential candidates (avowed and implied) is the omission from their platforms of any reference to the abolition of the motion picture industry's so-called short subjects—Hollywood's contribution to increased and intensified psychoses. A peculiarity of the American scene is the fact that the "movie-going" public will pay a more than adequate price of admission for a picture it wants to see and then submit passively to the frustrating necessity of exposure to from one-half to one hour of these "added distractions" before the feature picture is presented.

A case in point, recently flaunted in the neighboring theaters, was a minor epic devoted to the more violent stages of spastic schizophrenia. For the space of fifteen minutes the audience is permitted to watch a group of rapid-eyed young men caparisoned in sport jackets and striped ties, with musical instruments clutched firmly in their hands, make with spasmodic bursts of brassy dissonance. Seated directly in front of this group, and centered with geometrical precision, is a young man surrounded by various members of the percussion family. The young man is ostensibly the leader of the group, inasmuch as they respond, automaton-like, to some prearranged set of signals from his (possibly a raised drum stick, a spastic movement of his body, or some phenomena of extra sensory perception) putting their instruments to their mouths for short brassy shrieks, then dropping them to their laps in perfect synchronization. This, in itself, is not overly remarkable, but the phenomenal behavior of the young percussionist deserves a word of comment.

His specialty, aside from pounding vigorously on the vellum covered cylinders, apparently resides in the extreme mobility of his features, which run the gamut of expression from that of complete sensuous ecstasy to the quintessence of utter boredom. The facial expressions are accompanied by gesticulations that can be mildly described as extraordinary; these range from momentary catalepsy to an imitation of a humming bird with St. Vitus dance.

When one appraises this performance in the light of a psychological experiment, it is unusual; when it is viewed as an aspect of our national culture, it is discouraging.

Valley Cagers Whop Moravian 80-64 Breaking 3-Game Drought

Dutchmen Drop Successive Contests to Albright, Scranton, Dickinson By 10 Points

Unleashing a dazzling fourth period attack when they poured 29 points through the hoop, Ralph Mease's revitalized Flying Dutchmen swamped the Moravian College Greyhounds 80-64 last Saturday night in Lebanon to record their second Middle Atlantic Conference victory to keep them in running for the Conference crown. After putting on a ding-dong battle for the first three periods when L.V. lead 51-45, the Dutchmen caught fire in the final period with one of the flashiest spurts of winning basketball seen on the Lebanon floor this year.

The game went to prove what kind of basketball the Valley is capable of playing and it showed the Dutchmen were every bit the basketball team that we had thot them to be all season. No player can be singled out as the "star" of the contest, it was a team victory with every man playing top-flight ball. Bob Hess, shrimp-sized Valley forward, was a "double-duty-beauty," as he was all over the floor in the same breath. It was Bob who knocked the props out from under Moravian as he repeatedly stole the ball and broke up the Greyhound attack in addition to scoring 11 points. Floyd Becker was the outstanding point-getter for the Valley as he hit the mark for 21 points, with 12 of them coming in the final period. Team captain Rinso Marquette thrilled the crowd as he came through with 15 points, most of them via his spectacular jump shot.

"Whitey" Brunner played his usual stalwart defensive game and also supplied some of the offensive punch as he accounted for 11 pts. with seven of them coming in the third quarter. Hank DiJohnson scored 7 points and teamed with Hess to intercept Moravian passes and to speed up the Valley play in the second half.

The final score, however, does not give a true picture of the game. Moravian jumped into an 11-4 lead after the first five minutes and held a six point lead at the close of the first period. It was Marquette and Gemberling who kept the Dutchmen within striking distance as they accounted for 10 of the Valley's first 15 points. The Greyhounds were employing a fast-break, and though they were missing badly from close up, they managed to hold the lead until 4 minutes of the second period when L. V. tied the count at 24 all. Then the lead changed hands eight times and the score was tied on five occasions as the Dutchmen forged into a 38-36 lead at the half.

Moravian went ahead for the last time after five minutes in the third frame when they led 43-42. But the Valley regained control, went ahead on 44-43 on Bill Brunner's foul toss and exerted heavy pressure the rest of the game as Moravian caved in on both attack and defense.

In the final period the Valley offense was running at full throttle. Moravian, after trailing at the three quarter mark, 51-45, narrowed the margin to pull within three points of the Valley, but the Dutchmen were having none of that. Becker began "hitting-for-two" and Bobby Hess was all over the court like a "nervous cat." Valley faithful were delirious with joy as the Dutchmen romped up the floor to ring up two-pointers in precision-like style, and the house roared as Pete Gamber rolled in the 80th point on a lay-up with 1 second remaining.

Lebanon Valley's hopes for a possible Middle Atlantic Basketball Championship received a rude setback over the past weeks as the Flying Dutchmen dropped two decisions to Conference opponents. On Jan. 14 Ralph Mease's D-men went down to a one-point 47-45 defeat at the hands of a high-powered Albright five; and then, on Jan. 24, they absorbed a 55-52 defeat administered by the Scranton University Royals.

Against Albright the Valley succumbed to a two-man scoring combine in the persons of Ed Anlian and Ossie Kreibel, but only after one of those nip-and-tuck affairs that had the crowd on its feet.

The game was an uphill battle for the Dutchmen, but one that gave no indication as to the outcome up to the final whistle. L.V. was out in front, 21-18, midway in the second period, but Albright closed with a rush before the half to score four field goals while limiting the Valley to one foul toss to take a half-time lead of 26-22.

Albright moved out in front 33-24 after 7 minutes in the third period, but then the Dutchmen took to flight. Led by Gemberling, who scored 10 points for the evening, the Valley went on a scoring splurge that brought them to within 3 points of Albright at the start of the final quarter when the Lions led 41-38. The Valley continued to roll as they surged out in front 44-43, but that advantage quickly disappeared as Albright went ahead, 49-47, with a minute remaining.

Albright, intent to hold on to their slim lead, began to employ a freeze and the floor became a scene of a game which resembled chase-the-leader. A technical was called on the Lions and Rinso missed the toss. L.V., still trying to get the ball for one desperate shot, committed 4 fouls, but each time Albright elected to take the ball out. With 30 seconds remaining the Dutchmen got possession, but then lost the ball; again with 7 seconds to go L.V. had the ball out under the Albright basket. Bob Hess passed in to Becker, but Beck couldn't get clear to throw up a shot and the Valley went down to defeat.

Lebanon Valley's Flying Dutchmen went down to what will in all probability be their most bitter defeat of the season when they dropped a 59-56 decision to a "fighting" Dickinson College quintet on Feb. 4. at Carlisle. The matter of superiority between the Valley and Dickinson still remains a question as open as it was before the latter eked out the last-minute three point decision.

It was a rough-house game that at times got beyond gentlemanly bounds as the Dutchmen came within a whisker of upsetting the arrogant Dickinsonians.

The Dutchmen showed a courageous brand of basketball as they battled Dickinson right down to the wire. Coach Mease came up with an unpolished gem in Ray Kline, who was recently promoted to the first string. Ray turned in the finest individual exploit of the night as he bagged 18 points; and it was his sterling play under the basket that generated most of the Valley power.

Dickinson opened with a rush and piled up a 15-9 lead in the initial quarter and they continued to maintain a substantial lead until near the close of the half when Floyd Becker connected with three quick sets from the right side to pull the Valley to within four points of Dickinson at intermission.

After the half the Dutchmen came out winging with all the verve of 100 cc. injection of benzedrine as Kline began peppering the net.

The margin that Dickinson had built up began to melt. Down it dipped until the score was tied at 40-up with two minutes to go in the third period. L.V. added four points by the close of the third period and held a 44-40 lead as the final quarter got under way.

The Dutchmen tried desperately to hold the lead, but it began to dwindle as Dickinson broke thru Valley defenses to tally. With four and a half minutes showing on the clock, the score was deadlocked at 49-all as both teams were setting a torrid pace. Then Johnny Hopper, Devil forward who had been held in check for most of the evening, broke loose to ring-up two quick scores to put Dickinson back into a lead which the Valley couldn't quite overtake.

Members Of Jury To Be Chosen From Audience For Kalo Play

Procedure To Be Same As Regular Trial; Jurors To Have Admission Price Refunded

Details of the dramatic innovations which are an integral part of the Kalo-Delphian play, "Night of January 16th," which will take place, paradoxically, on the night of March 12th, were revealed by the sponsoring organizations last week.

As they enter Engle Hall, patrons may give their names to an usher if they care to be candidates for jury duty. These names are given to the clerk of the court, who places them in a drum, and the twelve that are drawn by lot are selected to serve. The clerk addresses the audience and explains that twelve of them will be called upon to come up on the stage and decide upon the verdict. One by one they step up on the platform and take their places in a conventional jury box, just as they would in a legitimate court trial, are sworn in, and listen to the testimony. Both men and women are eligible and each juror will be refunded the price of his admission.

Between the acts, the jurors are led off the stage to a small deliberation room. Each act represents one day of the trial. Just before the ending of the third act the jury retires for the last time to render a verdict. They vote after a short discussion, and although legally a unanimous decision is required for a verdict, for the sake of dramatic brevity a majority vote is taken as decisive for this trial.

Plan Photo Competition For College Students

Kappa Alpha Mu, national collegiate honorary fraternity devoted to photo journalism, has announced its third annual 50-print Collegiate Photography Exhibition. Science Illustrated, cooperating with Kappa Alpha Mu, will award the grand prize which includes a trip to New York with traveling expenses paid, seven working weeks with the magazine at a salary of $50.00 a week, and promise of a job if the winning photographer proves acceptable.

Political Sci. Students Will Participate In Model Convention

Under the direction of Professor Maud P. Laughlin, a delegation of political science students is making plans for participation in the Model Political Convention to be held by the Intercollegiate Conference on Government in Philadelphia during the weekend of April 8-11.

The I.C.G., whose membership includes most of the colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, meets annually in model political assemblage in order to give college students an opportunity to experience the mechanics of government. Last year the I.C.G. met as a model state legislature in Harrisburg. The LVC delegation turned in a creditable performance as first-year delegates.

A preliminary meeting, at which general procedure and policy are to be worked out, will be held in Harrisburg on February 28. Professor Laughlin, Student Chairman Fred Tice, and Alex J. Fehr of the Rules Committee will attend as representatives of Lebanon Valley College.

Entries will be accepted in five classes from now until April 30, 1948. First place awards will be made for the best pictures in the News, Pictorial-Feature, Fashion, Sports, and Industrial classes. The grand prize will be awarded to the best of these five winners.

Students regularly enrolled in any college or university are eligible to enter up to ten prints with no more than five entries.

Valley Five Noses Out Scranton To Take Lead In Conference

Extra-Period Game Ends In 59-54 Score For Fifth League Victory In Seven Games

Lebanon Valley's fighting Flying Dutchmen cleared another hurdle on the road to a possible Western Division title of the Middle Atlantic Conference when they downed the Scranton University Royals, 59-54, in a topsy-turvy overtime battle Saturday night in Lebanon. It marked the fifth conference victory for the Valley in seven starts.

Coach Ralph Mease's determined Dutchmen came on fast in the final quarter to score 22 points and tie the count at 51 all at the end of the regulation game. In the ensuing five minute overtime the Valley had too much strength for the ragged Royals as they scored eight points to win the stirring struggle.

It was an uphill battle for the D-men most of the way. After jumping into a first quarter lead, the Valley pace slackened as Scranton forged to the front. By half-time the Royals, meeting with considerable success from the outside, had piled up a commanding 23-15 lead.

Scranton continued out in front, and they held a bulging 13 point lead midway in the third period. But at the start of the final quarter the Dutchmen had closed the gap to seven points and they were starting to shake off their lassitude. The capacity crowd, sensing a Valley rally, began to whoop it up, and at the beginning of the final period the Dutchmen began to roll. With Marquette in the driver's seat, they scored nine points in succession and went out in front 49-45. Scranton tied the count at 49 all, but then Gemberling and Becker each dropped in a foul toss to give the Valley a two point advantage. As the last few seconds were ticking off, Scranton gained possession of the ball and fired in a long shot to send the game into overtime.

Wig And Buckle Club Entertain In Lebanon

Members of the Wig and Buckle Club entertained the Junior Woman's Club of Lebanon on Monday night with music and dramatic readings. Mary Jane Eckert sang two songs; Frank B. Huff read from Hamlet and Maxwell Anderson's play, The Masque of Kings; Albert Moriconi read portions from Edna St. Vincent Millay's poem The Murder of Lidice; and Peter Barcia did his impersonation of Al Jolson. This program was in place of the Wig and Buckle plays which were given at the college last fall.

Girls' Phys. Ed. Instructor Is Married to Hershey Man

The wedding of Miss Doris Irene Sponaugle, girls physical education instructor, and Ernest Frederick Drescher took place at 11 o'clock Friday morning in the Campbelltown Evangelical United Brethren Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, Reverend Warren Mentzer, an L.V.C. graduate.

The bride, who was dressed in blue, was attended by her niece, Miss Maxine Sponaugle, of Hershey. Best man was Thomas Yingst, also of Hershey.

Mrs. Drescher is a graduate of Hershey High School, Hershey Junior College, and Ursinus College, and also attended the University of Wisconsin, while the bridegroom is a graduate of Hershey High School and attended Hershey Junior College. He served as a paratrooper in World War II for two years, mainly

ON A NOTE OF APATHY

EVERY now and again it behooves us to turn the editorial pen to one of the peculiar manifestations of post-war campus life—or lack of it. And this is one of those times.

Call it what you will: School Spirit, the Old College Try, or even Rah-Rah Stuff... It's conspicuously lacking. And except for a few indefatigable souls, no one seems particularly worried about it. The campus organization or activity that hasn't felt this indifference on the part of the student body—and often the faculty—has yet to be heard from. If such a group exists, the secret of its success would be welcomed by the handful of students who bear the greater portion of the burden in keeping LVC from becoming just another diploma factory.

Any attempt to cite examples of this lethargic attitude would be woefully incomprehensible and obviously unnecessary. You see it everywhere.

Organization rosters are well-padded with the names of individuals who evidently joined them for the sole purpose of seeing their names in the paper or their pictures in the Quittie. If these card-holders and token zealots were disregarded, we would venture the opinion that the destinies of all campus activities are in the hands of two or three dozen persons. And if these overworked die-hards were to reflect on the fact that they are pouring their life's blood into a torpid vacuum and throw in the towel, campus activities would simply cease to exist.

This situation exists is undeniable.

Perhaps it's an inevitable by-product of the materialistic atomic age.

Perhaps the time has come for the valiant few to concede defeat and simply allow their organizations to "fold their tents like the Arabs and as silently steal away." They probably wouldn't be missed.

We don't know. We were just wondering.

Circulation Sparks

To the Editor:

According to your editorial in the Feb. 12, 1948, issue, there are some points which you seem to misunderstand about the re-organization of the Student-Faculty Council. This letter will be an attempt to clarify the situation for you as well as any other students who may be confused.

The letter sent out by the Student Faculty Council did not contain anything about formulating opinion of students as is implied by the closing sentence of your editorial. It did mention the desire of the Student-Faculty Council to have the authority to direct student opinion to the satisfaction of the greater majority. Do you not feel that this is necessary on campus? Where, at present, can students express legitimate dissatisfactions and receive, in return, beneficial action? Would it be undemocratic to have a Student-Faculty Council which could satisfy justifiable "gripes" of students? You stated that the Council is representative neither of students nor faculty. There seems to be an error in this statement. At present, the student contingent of the Council is composed of the presidents of the organizations represented, and/or by students appointed by and with the approval of the organization they represent. This seems to satisfy the democratic principle of group representation. Your statement is correct that students could form blocs to push action through. That is the situation at present, but after re-organization, before any action of the council could become effective a student vote of approval would be necessary. Unfortunately, under no circumstances can everyone be pleased.

In conclusion, the student body seems to have a desire for re-organization of the Student-Faculty Council on the proposed basis. This is shown by the fact that eleven out of the twelve organizations contacted are in favor of the change.

Reflections

TO REFLECTIONS:

To whoever writes this article, may I warn them that some day they are going to strangle on a three syllable adjective.

On February 12, you wrote how you disliked short subjects in movies. Well, the movie industry can't please everyone. In that I am connected with the Loews and M.G.M. publicity department, I can assure you that out of every hundred people going to the movies, eighty-five of these people want Short Subjects. Often it is the Short Subject that is the deciding factor whether one will go to this movie or that.

At present the studios are incapable of making enough short subjects to fill a fifty-two week demand, and thus, some studios are turning out rush jobs to please the audience. Yes, I believe shorts are here to stay. Look around you when a Bugs Bunny, Donald Duck, or Tom and Jerry go on the screen. You'll see smiles a mile wide. If you'll note closer, many actors get their start on shorts like Passing Parade, Pete Smith Specialty, Jerry Fairbanks Production, Paramount's Featurettes, and the like.

Whether you like it or not, shorts are here to stay. Haven't you noticed people will even stay in for the prevues? Or, was this article merely a lesson in English?

Very truly yours,
 E. LEON REAMER.

Despite Mr. Reamer's statistics, erudition, and certainty that, "shorts are here to stay," Reflections steadfastly urges: Down with the shorts!

EXPERT HAIRCUTTING

The Devil's Workshop Presents

Noonday Interlude

By DAVE FLEISCHER

He looked at his arm resting on the steering wheel. The bleached hairs formed a pleasing contrast with the deep, healthy brown of his skin. Just think, he mused, some people have to go to Miami. The sun's intense, unremittant incandescence was creeping in; its progress marked by a hot wedge of light, inexorably advancing over the seat of the truck, slowly inundating his leg, creeping up his side. It was stifling. The glistening sweat trickled down his chest, collected momentarily in the slouched ridges of his stomach, then continued in little rivulets that were lost in the sogginess of his waist-band. Phew! might as well change to the back of the truck, ought to be some shade there now. The tiny patch of coolness was filled with a broken-down canvas cot on which three perspiration-streaked forms scarcely moved at a desultory game of rummy. No room. He squatted in the dust, his back against a wheel, pulling his cap low against the aching whiteness of the coral runway. Four more hours yet... these day shifts are lousy, next week oughta be nights, thank God... Damn, but it's hot.

His restless stare suddenly attended a speck moving up the taxiway. It loomed larger. It loomed larger—huh, a six-by-six, maybe the chow truck. Roaring closer, leaving a white dust trail behind, it ground to a stop as the crash-crew came to life and queued up with a rattle of mess kits.

He chopped disgustedly at the spam and tasteless vegetables, took a drink of the tepid, artificial lemon drink, gagged, and pressed his tongue against his teeth at the edgy acid-sourness of it. Wonder what they'll have tonight... Hope they fix that damned ice machine so we can have something cold... His musings were suddenly interrupted...

Pop!

Pop!

Two red flares settled slowly the runway, swinging gently back and forth from their tiny parachutes. A transport, revving up at the far end of the strip for a take-off, swung abruptly and taxied off the field. A sudden tightness gripped his stomach as he raced for the truck cab. He leapt in and slammed the door as the rest of the crew scrambled on back. He caught a glimpse in the mirror of figures struggling into asbestos suits; his hand snapped on the ignition, foot pressing the starter—a low hesitant whine—God damn! why hadn't they charged that battery!

"What's up?"

"It's that missing P-47 from the Halmahara 'milk-run,'" a khaki figure, with a smoking flare gun in his hand, shouted down from the control tower, "Must be shot up pretty bad."

This is it! This is it! he thought desperately. Why won't the damn thing start! A little choke—Ah, that's it; he was rewarded by a cough that broke into a stomach-easing roar.

"Here she comes!"

The plane's engine spluttered—caught—spluttered—and caught again. Wonder if he'll make it? The wavering ship gained the end of the runway, hesitated, and pancaked in on its belly. He stepped on the gas, eased out the clutch, whipped the wheel, and sped the lumbering crash truck down the runway for all it was worth. The whining crescendo of the siren heralded their coming; all eyes were upon them. Figures scurried from all over the field, converging on the crack-up to see the show. He crouched over the wheel with a tight intensity as if, somehow, his strength could be used to thrust this thing forward a little faster.

His eyes never left the wreck. It hadn't come in too hard, what was wrong with the pilot, why didn't he escape the smoking trap, was he wounded? He swung the truck to the tail of the plane. The crew piled off and two, white, asbestos clad figures, armed with axe and wrecking bar, waddled like automats in attempted speed towards the plane.

"Get the pilot out!"

The Campus Is Talking About...

Not satisfied with making history on the basketball court with their fire-engine brand of play, the Flying Dutchmen are starting to set fire to the hearts of the campus belles too. Seen stepping out together constantly are Rinso Marquette and Rufina Balmer, Pete Gamber and Elaine Frock, and Hank DiJohnson and Fay Hall. And, adding to the growing parade last Saturday night, were Larry, "the Kin" Kinsella and Floyd "the Beck" Becker who made whoopee with Miriam Keller and her friend, Helen, who was visiting over the weekend... Jack Hoak's cute blonde better-half from Harrisburg was also down on Saturday to see her hero perform...

The title of the most frustrated boy on campus now belongs to Dick Pye. After leaving the dorm to become a day student (He was one in spirit before because of his constant hibernation in Palmyra) so he could be more free to see Nancy, she turns around and now has become a dorm student! And Dick can't get back in! Things are tough all over....

Jack Gaul is again operating. Connie Nestor is his patient. But his title of Don Juan is in jeopardy, for Mike Crincoli has been getting tender letters from a number of girls, one of them being Al Moriconi's sister.

Visiting the campus this past weekend were Phyllis Lambrose, Joan Wells and Miss Banks, our former dietician... Paul Krick, diminutive, soft spoken friend of silent Jim Magee, has the most phenomenal memory on campus... he knows the score of every basketball game in the state—and the names and essential data of every pretty girl on campus!

Fritz Delduco, suave, sedate, Senator is gunning for the title of Mr. Lebanon Valley College... has been dating Pat Riihiluoma, our charming and very talented winner of the Miss Lebanon Valley College contest. But, come what may, he still retains his placid, even temper, always smiling.

Valley Cagers Edge Albright After Flashy Juniata Victory

Becker, R. Hess, Marquette, DiJohnson Pace Dutchmen As They Tie For Division Lead

Lebanon Valley's engine of basketball destruction, which has flattened three conferences adversaries in the last three games while rolling up 240 points, has been souped up with a new fuel which in basketball teams is known as "fight." Against Albright Saturday night, and against Juniata on Feb. 11, the Mease machine was running with the throttle wide open. They whipped the Lions 70-66 in an overtime thriller, and ran up one of the highest scores recorded by the Valley when they soundly trounced Juniata by the amazing score of 96-62.

The rampaging Dutchmen re-venge an early season loss to Albright, but only after one of those nip-and-tuck affairs that constitute the necessity of a heart specialist. After Ed Anlian, classy Lion forward had tied up the score 59-59 in the regulation time, the Valley put on the pressure in the overtime to gain the victory, their sixth of the season.

Floyd Becker was the big gun in the Valley attack as he bombarded the nets for 20 points. Marsh Gemberling, Rinso Marquette, and Hank DiJohnson also played the pleasing double-numbers racket as they chipped in with 35 points between them.

Mease's mighty machine was geared to perfection in the final half as they overcame a seven point halftime deficit to tie the count at the start of the final quarter and then topple the Lions in the extra period. With plenty of scrap and fight which has been the chief factor in the recent well-deserved Valley victories, the Dutchmen shook off their first-half lassitude in the dressing room to give the Reading fans some display of their remarkable scoring power as they posted 46 points in the remainder of the contest.

In the way of team play, the Dutchmen have been functioning well as a unit. Against Albright, Gemberling turned in one of his best performances of the year, both as a point-getter and also as a defensive standout as he turned in a defensive masterpiece on Ossie Kreibel, elongated Albright center. Floyd Becker had been unbelievably left on his set shots in the last three games as he has come thru in great style. The guards—DiJohnson and Marquette—are two big reasons why the Valley is definitely in the race for the league crown, as they can always be counted on for a top performance.

Bill Brunner and Ray Kline have both blossomed out to give Coach Mease added height under the boards. Brunner especially has proven himself of the class to merit much-deserved praise. Bobby Hess has really been the spark that has ignited the Valley team. He is custom-made for the "New Look" which Coach Mease has brought about by inaugurating the Valley's new style of run-and-shoot basketball, which, when running smoothly, is a sight to see.

In achieving the spectacular win over Juniata, the Valley outran, outscored and outthrust the Indians as they pounded the boards at full speed to score 20 or more points each quarter. Juniata had neither the finesse nor the reserve strength to combat the Dutchmen as the Valley swished the cords from all angles and in all ways.

Floyd Becker, the sensational soph, scored 25 points as he whirled in ten double-deckers and five free throws to lead his hoop-happy teammates in the one sided triumph. Bill Brunner, Bob Hess and Hank DiJohnson also hit double numbers as they tossed in 52 points between them.

A flurry of baskets in the opening minutes put the dapper Dutchmen out in front and on their way to marking up the mountainous score. During the first period Bob Hess provided the chief offensive threat as he rang-up four field goals. By halftime the D-men had increased their lead to 43-32 as Becker had amassed 19 points.

The third period found the Valley peppering the cords for 26 counters while holding the Indians to ten points. As Bill Brunner led the attack when he connected from the keyhole with one-handers. The Dutchmen continued to set a hot scoring pace when, with four minutes to go in the final session, Coach Mease sent in the second stringers who also met with considerable scoring success to boost the final score to 90 points.

With the Dutchmen

If you have a bad heart, we strongly advise you not to see a Lebanon Valley basketball game, but if you want to be thrilled to the core; to have various sensations of agony and sickness in your stomach, see the Valley men play. On two successive Saturday nights Valley fans have seen their favorites behind at the half, by 7 and 8 points respectively, and have seen them come thrillingly from behind to snatch victory from almost certain defeat. This leaves fans limp as a rag after the game and giving them a feeling that they have been playing the game as well as the players.

We feel the Valley had some bad basketball in their system. Last Saturday night they got it out, and through the combination of an injured first stringer, five men fouled out, and a tired Scranton quint which had already played 3 games that week, and only the night before an overtime game with Seton Hall, losing 57-56, were able to come out on top.

We want to congratulate the Scranton boys on a fine game. Granted they were a little rough in spots, and committed more than their share of fouls, they did impress us. From their coach on down they handled themselves and were not given to much complaining.

Writing this column three days before it shows in print is disadvantageous, as we, of course, cannot perceive the outcome of the Susquehanna and Moravian games, but we confidently expect the Dutchmen to come through to victory in both games. The predictions of victory in the Moravian game may make us hide our heads come Thursday, but we've said it, come what may.

With 183 points in 12 games, Floyd Becker is the only Dutchman who has a chance to crash the 200 point column. His total gives him an average of 15.25 points per game. Captain Marquette, with 120 points in 12 games, is averaging 10 points per game.

The Jay-Vees have kept pace with the varsity in the last four games, having won four straight. Their record now stands at 9 and 2, quite an average for little Danny Seiverling, who seems to know what to do at the correct time. Bob Fisher has more than compensated for the loss of Charley Witman thru scholastic difficulties, and the addition of "Buzz" Levick from Drake University has given added reserve strength to the squad. "Buzz" is a definite possibility for a varsity berth next year, as are Larry Kinsella and Charley Zimmerman.

Sports In Shorts

The girls' basketball team got off to a rather bad start by dropping their first five games of the season to Albright, Lock Haven, Shippensburg, and two games to Elizabethtown.

The team finally came into its own when, on February 16, they defeated the Moravian girls by a score of 43-21.

Early in the first quarter, the Dutchgirls took the lead and remained ahead for the remainder of the game. The score at half-time was 25-9, favor the home team. The lassies came back with as much enthusiasm as they displayed upon entering the game, and at the finish the score was 43 to 21.

The brilliant playing of every member of the team was displayed in this game, Betty Edelman leading the scoring with 26 points for the home team. Greenwill was top-scorer for Moravian with 13 points.

Ready for another victory, the L.V.C. lassies traveled to Millersville where their hopes were shattered, for Millersville handed them a 28-23 defeat. The game was nip and tuck the whole way, and at half-time the Dutchgirls held a one point lead. The Valleyites continued to lead until the middle of the third quarter when a number of fouls committed by the L.V. lassies gave Millersville a five point lead. Unable to score the necessary points that mean victory, the Valleyites were handed a 28 to 23 defeat.

The junior varsity team was defeated by Millersville by a score of 24 to 22.

The hose men converged on the burning engine, trailing tubes of black rubber that spun from the reels. He worked the pump controls with rapid, rehearsed precision. He could see the pilot suddenly move—He was still alive! A hand reached from the cockpit, grasped the canopy and jammed it back.

"Watch out!"

The eager flames had reached the broken wing with its supply of gasoline.

"She's gonna blow!"

The hose men dropped their nozzles, the two asbestos-clad figures hesitated, kicked off their encumbering boots and followed in a terrified rush for safety. He flung his arm across his eyes against the dull flame-mushroomed explosion. The orange billowing horror smothered the half erect pilot, struggling to free himself in a last futile life grasping effort.

The show was over. The crowd broke and collected into groups of two's and three's that sauntered back to their jobs.

"Boy, that baby really went up."

"Hell, that was nuthin, didja see that B-24 yesterday?"

A latecomer half trotted to the scene, gazed at the burnt out wreckage, and disappointedly turned away.

"Hey! Get those spark-plugs from tech supply on the way back, will-ya."

A lieutenant drove up in a jeep. "Say," he addressed the officer in charge, "Any plexiglas on that wreck I can get my hands on?"

"Nope. All burnt up."

"Damnit to hell! Well, maybe there's some over at the salvage yard. Thanks anyway," he called, driving away.

Only the crash crew was left. He climbed into the truck, slouched behind the wheel and waited for the crew to roll in the hose. Guess that lousy Spam'll be cold by now, tasted crappy enough before . . . Oughta get a beer issue tonight . . . Hope they fixed that damn ice machine. He raked the sweat from his brow with a crooked forefinger . . . Damn, but it's hot!

German Club Holds First Coffee Hour

The German Club held its first afternoon coffee hour on Friday, February 23. For the twenty-five members and guests present it was an enjoyable hour spent in listening to the music of Bach and Mozart and in participating in German conversation and folk songs. The next coffee hour will be held on Tuesday, March 9, at 4 p.m. Members will present individual musical, dramatical, and conversational numbers. Plans will also be made for holding intercollegiate meetings with outside speakers on topics of cultural interest, to be discussed in German.

UP FROM THE RANKS

To ORGANIZE, PLAN, AND DIRECT the telephone business—a business with its roots in so many communities throughout the state—hundreds of men and women, skilled in the complexities of telephone work, are required.

It is these men and women—telephone employees at various stages of their careers—who, side by side with all employees, accept the responsibility of providing you with good telephone service at low cost.

"Up from the ranks" is a familiar phrase to telephone people, for each of them knows that the opportunity to assume more and more responsibilities is open to all and that those who come up from the ranks earn, by their own abilities, the rewards of promotion for good work well done.

Opportunity of this sort means much to you, for the skill and experience of telephone people, working together in a common cause, are major factors in providing good telephone service at low cost.

Valley Sends 15 Delegates To Student Govt. Conference

Labor Committee Chairman Alex Fehr and Fred Tice Lead Group At Phila. Meeting

Fifteen delegates from Lebanon Valley College were present today at the opening session of The Intercollegiate Conference on Government in Philadelphia. The Conference, whose membership includes virtually all the colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, convened this morning as a Model Political Convention. Here they will follow the procedure followed by the major political parties in their presidential election year conventions.

Alex J. Fehr, a political science major, is serving as State Chairman of the Labor Committee. His position is regarded as a signal honor since it was one of the two assigned to the fourteen colleges of the South Central region of the I. C. G. by a faculty panel at a preliminary meeting in Harrisburg several months ago. According to an announcement made by Professor Maude P. Laughlin, the following LVC students are serving as delegates:

Frederick Tice, Student Chairman; Alex J. Fehr, State Chairman, Labor Committee; Alfred Delduco, Labor Committee; Douglas Earich, Military Affairs; Richard Eisenhauer, Foreign Affairs; James Gregg, Military Affairs; Henry Hostetter, Rules; Glenn Hall, Natural Resources; Raymond Kline,

On Saturday and Sunday, April 10 and 11, Mother will go to college at L.V. The fest begins with a tea at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lynch at 4:00 p. m. on Saturday. Miss Mary Gillespie, Dean of Women, and Mrs. W. A. Wilt, girl's Sunday School teacher, will pour. On the receiving line will be Miss Huth, Mrs. Myers, and Miss Vaught. The decorations will be attractively arranged in pink with spring flowers. At five-thirty p.m. a banquet will be held in North Hall in honor of the visiting mothers and Mrs. Carmean. North Hall will be in blue and white with the theme of "Mother goes to college." The committee consists of Doris Hyman, chairman, and Hattie Cook and Emma Murphy.

Constitution Revised By Student Faculty Council

Asks for Suggestions and Comments from Students

One of the products of the Student-Faculty Council's efforts to organize more efficiently in order to be able to get things underway more rapidly next year is its revised constitution printed below. The Council requests that the students read it carefully so that they may be able to vote fairly for its approval or disapproval at a later date. The Council would also appreciate any comments or suggestions from the students so that these might be incorporated before the constitution comes up for general approval. The suggestions may be placed in the La Vie Box in the Ad. Building or given to a member of the council.

Chorus and Soloists to Sing "Elijah" At Music Festival Opening Tonight

College Glee Club And Band Will Perform In Joint Concert-Recital Friday Night

The sixteenth annual Music Festival of the Conservatory will be held tonight and Friday night, April 8 and 9, in Engle Hall at 8:00 P. M.

The Thursday night program will be Felix Mendelssohn's Oratorio, "Elijah," presented by the conservatory chorus of 125 voices.

The four solo passages of the oratorio will be the role of Elijah, which will be done by Mr. Paul King, a concert baritone, artistically famous in the southern, eastern, and midwestern sections of the country, where he has traveled on tours; the soprano solo will be rendered by Miss Ruth Becker, of Reading, Pennsylvania; the contralto role will be performed by Mrs. Helen Hartman Dale, of Harrisburg, who has appeared on Lebanon Valley programs on three previous occasions and who is now an instructor at a conservatory in Philadelphia. Miss Mary Jane Eckert, a senior in the Conservatory of Music, will sing the part of the Youth; and Mr. Reynaldo Rovers, a voice professor at the conservatory for the past three years, will do the tenor lead. Mr. Rovers, who has sung Mendelssohn's "Elijah" on previous occasions, usually did the baritone lead, but, due to a change in vocal range, will do the tenor solo in this musical presentation.

The theme of the "Elijah" is the religious convictions of two sects in Israel. Baal was the idol the Israelites worshipped and God's prophet was Elijah. Elijah was commanded to abolish the worship of Baal, and caused a great drought to strike the Baal worshippers in Israel as punishment for their disbelief. The tests of the power of the two gods follow and God causes the fire to consume the sacrifices offered on the altar. Elijah, who

Egg Hunt, Hat Creations Highlight Clio Meeting

Clio Hall was the scene of a delightful Easter party on Monday, March 22, at 7:15 p.m.

The highlight of the program was the making of Easter bonnets by each girl using only paper plates, crepe paper, and pins as raw materials. Each member there modeled her own creation. Miss Mary E. Gillespie, Dean of Women, judged the hats on originality, color scheme, and becomingness to the person. A pie plate trimmed with aqua crepe paper, a fuschia rose, and tied under the chin with an aqua bow made by Phyllis Dale was selected the winner.

An egg hunt followed the girls' attempts at creating head-line fashions. Joanna Norris was the super sleuth who tracked down the lone egg on which "Happy Easter" was written. Refreshments were then served.

Senior Class Makes Final Plans For Dance In Hbg.

The Class of '48, under the capable leadership of Eddie Englehart, is making final arrangements for the last big social events of its college career. At a meeting held on Thursday, April 1, the Civic Club in Harrisburg was selected as the place for the Senior Ball to be held on Saturday evening, May 15 from 9 til 12. The selection of an orchestra has been placed in the hands of the orchestra committee.

It has also been announced by the treasurer, Virginia Vought, that the Senior class dues this year will be $4.00 per member. However, all class dues from previous years that have not been paid must also be paid before the end of the semester. Seniors are urged to attend to this matter as soon as possible.

President and Mrs. Clyde A. Lynch will entertain the Senior class at a dinner.

The annual Alumni Dinner and Dance in the honor of the graduating class will be held in the social rooms of the College Church and the Annville High School Gym respectively on Saturday night, May 29. Seniors are urged to send in their reservations to Rev. David Gockley as soon as possible.

Rec Hall Hours To Be Extended

Rec Hall commandos may tender a vote of thanks to the Jiggerboard and Senate for making possible the extension of the hours during which the hall may be kept open. Members of these governing bodies will be appointed to chaperone on Friday and Saturday nights from 10 until 12.

Rumors were circulating to the effect that the Jiggerboard was willing but that the Senate had refused to cooperate. However, verification of the facts disclosed that Rinso Marquette, president of the Senate, had not been approached about the subject until last Friday. Rinso stated that the Senate would do its share to help in keeping the hall open for the benefit of the student body.

The possibility of opening the hall on Sunday afternoons is being discussed.

The membership of the Student-Faculty Council shall consist of one representative from each of the following groups: The Senior Class, the Junior Class, the Sophomore Class, the Freshman Class, the Men's Day Student Congress, the Women's Commuter's Council, The Men's Senate, the Women's Student Government Association, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, Kalo, Philo, Delphian, Clio, and three representatives from the Faculty.

Section 2. All other officially recognized organizations shall serve in the capacity of associate members. Section 3. Each representative shall be selected by the respective organization. Said representative may be the president of the organization he shall represent.

Section 4. Representatives mentioned in Section 1 shall have 1 vote each.

Section 5. No one person shall represent more than one organization.

ARTICLE IV Meetings

Section 1. Regular meetings shall be held twice monthly, except when classes are not in session, at such times as agreed upon by all members of the Student-Faculty Council.

Section 2. A majority of the voting members shall constitute a quorum to do business.

Section 3. Each meeting shall be open to all students of the college but only their representative as designated in Article III, section 1, shall be allowed on the floor of the Student-Faculty Council.

Section 4. Special meetings shall be called by the President of the Student-Faculty Council at his discretion or on demand by the majority of the voting members of the Student-Faculty Council.

Section 5. Failure to attend three regular or special consecutive meetings, without valid excuse, shall be considered just grounds for the removal of a member from the Student-Faculty Council. The Student-Faculty Council shall then declare his seat vacant and notify the unrepresented organization.

ARTICLE V Officers

The officers of the Student-Faculty Council shall be a president, a vice-president, a secretary, and a treasurer, who shall be selected from and elected by the voting members of the Student-Faculty Council.

ARTICLE VI Precedence

This Constitution and By-laws shall take precedence over any other instrument governing the student body of Lebanon Valley College, as referred to in Article II, subject only to the statutory regulations of the Board of Trustees and of the Faculty.

ARTICLE VII

This Constitution may be amended by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the votes cast by the student body, provided that such proposed amendment has been submitted in writing to the Student-Faculty Council and published in LA VIE COLLEGIENNE at least thirty days prior to action on the proposed amendment by the student body.

By-Laws

ARTICLE I

Section 1. Representatives shall be selected by the various organizations before the fourth week preceding spring exams.

Section 2. Students in good standing and with at least an average grade of C shall be eligible.

Section 3. Each organization shall conduct the selection according to its own approved procedure.

Section 4. If a vacancy occurs because of resignation, disability, academic disqualification, or failure to attend meetings according to Article V, Section 5, of the Constitution, the unrepresented organization shall provide a new representative according to the method stated in section 3 of this Article.

ARTICLE II Duties of Officers

Section 1. The president of the Student-Faculty Council shall organize and preside at all meetings of the Student-Faculty Council, direct all its activities, and perform all other duties which his office implies.

Section 2. The president shall have no vote, unless the vote is equally divided.

Section 3. The vice-president shall perform the duties of the president in his absence.

Section 4. The secretary shall keep and make proper distribution of the minutes of all Student-Faculty Council meetings; he shall maintain all other records, and conduct all correspondence of the Student-Faculty Council.

Section 5. The treasurer shall be custodian of the funds of the Student-Faculty Council; he shall keep the accounts of the Student-Faculty Council, and he shall perform all other duties which his office implies.

Section 6. If a vacancy occurs in the office of the president of the Student-Faculty Council, the vice-president shall fill the unexpired term thereof. If a vacancy occurs in any other office of the Student-Faculty Council, the Student-Faculty Council shall elect from among its voting members, the person to fill that office for the unexpired term.

Section 7. The term of office of any of the officers of the Student-Faculty Council shall be one school year, subject to re-election.

This is going to be your column. Your ideas and opinions on national and world events are important. Your decisions and ours all added together help to decide major policies. We have a right to know how the majority is thinking. In order to show you how the majority on our campus feels about such outstanding issues as a proposed increase in our armed forces, who should be our next president, etc., the chapel program sheets will carry questions on these issues. Through the results you can see how most of the students feel about them.

We have a problem. What should we call this poll? It should have an official name. Next week, in addition to the regular questions, space will be provided for your suggestions concerning a good name for the opinion poll. If you think of an original name, make your contribution, and you may see it in print in the next edition of LA VIE.

The first question brought before the students was in relation to the proposed military preparedness program. Question No. 1 was: "Do you think the U. S. should increase the size of its armed forces?" The following results were obtained.

The total number of answers received was 436, with the number of veterans being 224 and non-veterans being 212.

	Yes	No	Opinion
Vets	206	15	3
Non-Vets	179	26	7
Total Opinion	385	41	10
%	88.3	9.4	2.3

The second question was: "The U. S. should increase the size of its armed forces by following a program of:

1. Selective Service and Universal Military Training as recommended by President Truman.

2. Selective Service without Universal Military Training.

3. Universal Military Training without Selective Service.

	1.	2.	3.
	UMT-SS	SS	UMT
Vets	108	29	67
Non-Vets	82	33	62
Total Opinion	190	62	129
%	43.6	14.2	29.8

In addition, there were some fourth alternatives suggested:

1. Increased enlistments.

2. Increased expenditures for air power and atomic research.

3. National athletics program.

The "if's" included:

1. If it is the only thing that can be done to stop Russia.

2. If it is accompanied by intensive technical training instead of "manual of arms" training.

And then there was the very emphatic suggestion to "throw the #—!*% militarists out of our State Department and put in intelligent diplomats without inherent prejudices; then I'll not be ashamed of our State Department and its foreign policy."

The overwhelming majority were in favor of increasing our military power as a step to peace. One of the "if's" deserves honorable mention—"if it is the only thing that can be done to stop Russia." Up to the present time in history man's main method of solving international problems has been by "fighting it out." Isn't it time we find a better way?

DANCE REVUES—

Sophomore—The Snowball theme and the excellent floor show made the Sophs' effort a big success. With Pete Barcia in his inimitable routine as Al Jolson and George Ritner's Irish numbers there was plenty of variety. Jeanne Bozarth handled the emceeing capably. Jeanne is favoring a green convertible and the boy with the distinguished last name, Dick Eisenhower, over athletics, and New Jersey these days. Barb Blouch with Steve Crowell and B. J. Butt with Joe Fiorello were the liveliest dancing partners of the evening.

Freshmen—The Community building at Hershey was attractively decorated for the semi-formal dance held there by the Freshmen. Janie Flinchbaugh with Joe Campanella brought many a surprised and wondering glance, but Smitty still seems to be very much in the picture. Dick Moore and Jo Kessler had a gay time from the looks of things, and them, but Jo has been letting her Art-istic nature take over since then. Sozia Mieczkowska with Eddie Steiner made a striking dance team.

Kalo-Delphian—The Spanish Room of the Hotel Hershey was the location of this well attended dance. Notable among the alumni were Miles Harriger with his fiancée, Dot, and Madalyn Quickel with her latest, Bob. Jane E. Reed with her constant companion, Bob Fisher, of football fame tripped the light fantastic.—Faye Krout with Lloyd Dekker made the cutest couple on the floor, and mighty smooth dancing they did, too. Ruth Gluck with Henry Deens, Karl Miller with Vera Boyer, and Sarah Zellers with Pat Esposito were the surprises of the evening.

Day Student—This dance brought forth some happily married couples—among them Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shettel, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Koons, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huff, to name a few. The surprise combinations included Thelma Musselman and Arthur Bacastow, Mary Edelman and Johnnie Light, Nancy Meyer (what would Jefferson Hospital say!) and Richard Hartman.—It was a pleasant surprise to see L. V. graduate, wee Dottie Smith, and Eugene Nelson still very happy—also "Bert" Barbini and her tall, handsome, "Ronnie" . . . Sounded a bit as though Johnny Adams' "vocalass" Nan Urich thinking about her U. of P. heartbeat while singing those love songs!

IT'S SPRING AGAIN—Hazel Kinney and Ronnie Wolf feeling it's effects, as are Ray Kline and Beatrice Royer, and Tom Schaak and Carolyn Gassert. Congratulations to those South Hall gals, Marian Schwalm and Mary Jane Eckert, upon their Easter engagements to Austin Fuhrman and Bob Streepy.

VARIATION UPON AN OLD QUOTATION—"In spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to what a girl has been thinking all winter."

Last year the I. C. G. met as a Model State Legislature in Harrisburg. Frederick Tice, who led the group last year through an amazing performance for first-time participants, held a series of local meetings in order to give intensive training to the new delegates in parliamentary procedure and the rough-and-tumble nature of politics.

The purpose of the I. C. G. is to teach college students the mechanics of government by actually practicing the procedures of typical political assemblies. Model political conventions have been held previously by the I. C. G. in 1936 and again in 1940. The meeting this year is expected to be of unusual interest because of the highly controversial nature of the problems.

Chemistry Club Takes First Field Trip

Rochester, New York, and an interesting visit with the glass and lens makers, Bausch and Lomb, was the destination of those sleepy eyed students you might have seen straggling toward the Ad Building at 4:30 a.m. on Wednesday morning, April 7. The Lebanon Valley Chemistry Club on that day made the first of two field trips to industrial plants that have been planned for the current year. Arriving at the plant at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the students were taken on a conducted tour of portions of the plant and the laboratory. The group then returned the same day, tired but happy after the enjoyable and instructive trip.

At the last meeting of the Chemistry Club on March 16, in the Chemistry Lecture Room, Dr. Gliem, Professor of Organic Chemistry at Dickinson College, was the guest speaker. His topic was "Textile Chemistry."

BASKETBALL RESUME

The final whistle has blown and the last point has been scored as the 1947-48 Lebanon Valley basketball team closed a banner season with a record of 10 victories against 6 defeats, while scoring 1,012 points against 896 for the opposition. Lebanon Valley averaged 63.25 points a game, and our record, one of the best in years, marks an achievement which all the followers of Valley sports should be proud. Let's go behind the scenes and analyze the season game by game, score by score, and we'll see a basketball team that will hold a high spot in Valley basketball history. Presented herewith are some flashbacks on the highlights of the '47-'48 season, and the players that made the campaign a success.

First off, the credit for the success of a team goes to the coach—Ralph Mease. Ralph is the guy that makes the Dutchmen fly! He put a radically different '47-'48 model on the court. A team that had many of the familiar '46 features, but one that was a complete change in style of play. Run down the line of the past L. V. schedule, and you won't find a more scrappy, hustling, never-say-die club on the list than this year's Valley crew. The man behind the success of the team and to whom much credit must be given for the good team is Coach Ralph Mease—he did a magnificent job.

No one player on the team can be singled out as the Mr. Big of Valley basketball. You don't put your finger on one player and say he's the guy who's responsible for L.V.'s success. We didn't have that kind of team. Every man was responsible in some part for the Valley's good record. It's true that practically each game produced a new star that shone more brilliantly in the Valley constellation, but all in all team play was responsible for the reputable Valley showing.

Before going into a game by game resume of the season, here are the headlines; the superlatives of 1947-48 Valley basketball.

One of marks set by the Dutchmen was the 109 points scored against the University of Baltimore. In a game that was actually a rout from the opening whistle the D-men scored the greatest number of points ever recorded by a Lebanon Valley team and also set a scoring record for the Lebanon floor. After the varsity had rolled up a 29-6 first quarter lead, Coach Mease calmly took out his regulars and began filling in with substitutes. Even the subs were hot shots and L.V. led 60-18 at the half. The Dutchmen continued to rack up points in heaping and leaping handfuls and the Baltimore brigade went down with a crash, 109-47, as L.V. won by 62 points.

On successive Saturday nights the Valley annexed pulse-tingling overtime games from two bitter league rivals—Albright and Scranton. Against Albright the Dutchmen were trailing by seven points at half-time, but they bounded back to score 46 points the remainder of the contest to win the encounter 70-66. The following Saturday at Lebanon before the largest home crowd of the season, almost 3,000 persons witnessed a rough harem-scarum struggle which saw the Valley close a bulging 13 point gap which Scranton held midway in the third quarter and tie the count 59 all at the end of the regulation game. Then Becker and DiJohnson came thru with timely goals in the overtime as the Dutchmen won 59-54.

Other performances that should get top billing were the home games against Moravian and Juniata when the Measemen played two of the highest scoring, smoothest operating games seen in many a moon. Moravian was snowed under as they couldn't keep pace with the fast stepping Dutchmen. With Becker banging in 12 points in the final period and Bob Hess demolishing the Moravian attack, the Dutchmen romped for 29 points to outspeed the Greyhounds and win 80-64.

L.V. was definitely having one of its good nights against Juniata. They were sharp on attack and sound of defense as they recorded their second largest score of the season, 90-62. Becker took scoring laurels with 25 points, nineteen of them coming in the first half.

In the season's finale the Valley took the measure of Franklin and Marshall. Once again L.V.'s greater court generalship and slickness paid off. The score was tied 16 all at the end of the first period as the Diplomats capitalized on long looping field goals. The Dutchmen were a bit faster and considerably more aggressive as they forged to the front at halftime 26-15. Then Gemberling took over. Marsh performed miraculous feats of point making as he dumped in 23 points in the final half to lead the Valley to a crushing 83-67 triumph.

Lebanon Valley opened the season at Juniata on Dec. 10. They conquered the Indians in a close affair that wasn't decided until the final moments when DiJohnson pitched in the points that tipped the balance in L.V.'s favor as we won 48-41. Elizabethtown furnished the opposition for our first home game. They came to Lebanon with the highly heralded Frank Keath, top collegiate scorer in the state, to challenge the Dutchmen. Marquette held Frank to 16 points and the Valley held E-town to 35 as the Measemen won handily 54-35.

L.V. met with their worst defeat of the season against one of the basketball powerhouses of the nation when LaSalle, participant in this year's National Invitation Tournament, played one of the greatest games ever seen on the Lebanon boards as they tallied 17 points to 43 for the Valley. The roof fell in on the overmatched pupils of Ralph Mease as LaSalle looked invincible as they crushed the D-men.

Then Lafayette eked out the 38-36 victory over L.V. at Easton. The Dutchmen were out in front most of the way, but the Leopards scored a field goal in the last 70 seconds of play to win the contest. E-town was our next opponent. L.V., challenged by a game team that refused to quit, turned on the heat in the final period to win by four points, 67-63.

Lady Luck then put in her appearance and in the following three games, against Albright,

With the Dutchmen

Before we know it, baseball season will be upon us. The opening game is set for this Saturday at Albright and Coach Mease has been drilling his men for the past three weeks. Little can be ascertained just yet, but the only pitcher of last year returning is Charley Miller. Wiry Herm Seigel, who pitched such splendid ball last season has decided not to come out and risk re-injuring that leg of his, injured in football last year. Marsh Gemberling underwent an operation in Philadelphia a month ago for the removal of a bone chip from his pitching elbow. It will be another two weeks or more until he knows the outcome. Until then Marsh is definitely on the doubtful list for this spring. Newcomers who may make the squad are Guy Euston and Larry Kinsella. However, twelve men came out for the first workout and all have a chance to win the three open spots on the Valley pitching staff.

Hank DiJohnson and Earl Kauffman return from last year's catching staff. However, newcomers Al Koenig and Kadel show promise and may give the veterans some stiff competition. We'll know more in two weeks. But from here it looks like the makings of a good team.

The same men who composed last year's squad are returning with the exception of Al Hildebrand and Herm Seigel, but with some promising newcomers to take up the slack, the 1947 record of 11 wins and 2 losses may be closely approached. Pitching is the big difficulty, however, and only time can tell.

An orchestral ensemble will accompany the choral numbers and Miss Mildred Myers, a teacher at Annville High School, will accompany the solo passages on the organ.

The Friday night roster will feature the thirty-two voice Glee Club of the conservatory and the concert band.

The Glee Club will offer its tour program in almost its entirety. The cornet trio, composed of Ralph Downey, Chester Richwine, and Kenneth Sampson, will play "The Triumvirate," by Ernest Williams, as a special feature.

The band program will include a varied selection of marches, a symphony, a Russian sailors' dance, a waltz and a South American number. Jack Snively will present "Concertino," by Carl M. von Weber, as the solo selection on the band program.

Prof. Maud Laughlin Attends Phila. Meeting

Mrs. Maud P. Laughlin, Professor of Political Science and Sociology at Lebanon Valley College, attended the fifty-second annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences last weekend. The meeting was held at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia. The general topic of discussion was "How to Achieve One World." Paul V. McNutt, former U.S. High Commissioner to the Philippines, spoke, and many other notable speakers were present to lead the discussions and to present their own ideas.

Sports In Shorts

The Flying Dutchgirls closed their 1947-1948 basketball season in an ideal way by defeating the Penn Hall lassies by a score of 16 to 11.

Early in the opening period of play, Edelman opened the scoring for the Valley by sinking a field goal. Thas was followed by a duo of foul shots. The quarter closed with Penn Hall's Pat Wolf scoring a foul shot, and at quarter time the score was 4 to 1, favor the home team.

The scoring in the second quarter was few and far between for Penn Hall, the Valley guards holding them to but three foul shots. In this period the home lassies netted six points, making the score at half-time 10-3.

Late in the third quarter Penn Hall scored their first field goal of the game. This was followed by two more two pointers and a pair of foul shots in the last quarter. Not to be outdone, the L. V. C. forwards scored three field goals making the final score 16 to 11, favor L.V.C.

By defeating Penn Hall the L. V. C. team put the first blemish on their record, for prior to this game Penn Hall was undefeated.

Gander Weekend To Turn Tables On Campus Males

During Gander Weekend, April 16-18, campus chivalry will go into reverse as the women take over customary male roles in the matter of entering buildings and the dining hall, finding seats, coat-holding, and the payment of incidental bills. The usual dating procedure will be abandoned: the ladies will take the aggressive in dating, even to the extent of calling at the Men's Dorm for their dates.

Committees have announced that a "Bubble Dance" will be held sometime during the weekend and the Girls' Dorms will hold open house on Sunday from 2-5 p.m. Admission to the dance will be 25c per person, 50c per couple.

The following committees have been working on the project: Betty Ruth Jones, Decorations; Barbara Kleinfelter, Orchestra; Mary Lee Glover and Luzetta Warfel, Chap-erones; Kitty Rhodes and Virginia Vought, Refreshments; Opal Shumate, Properties; Be Frank, Place; Mildred Neff, Posters.

Three Valley Students Announce Betrothals

Engagements of three Lebanon Valley students were announced during the Easter vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Oran L. Eckert, of 421 Franklin Street, West Reading, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jane, to Mr. Robert D. Streepy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George F. Streepy of Easton, Pa. Both will graduate from the Lebanon Valley Conservatory of Music in May. The wedding will take place in November.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Allen Schwalm, Valley View, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Marian, to Mr. Austin S. Furman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Asher Furman of Tremont, Pa. Miss Schwalm is a junior at Lebanon Valley College. Mr. Furman has a position with the Keystone Pipeline Company. No date has been set for the wedding.

L.V.C. Dutchmen Start Baseball And Tennis Season Sat.

Lebanon Valley's Flying Dutchmen resume their baseball and tennis ways this Saturday, April 10, when they oppose the Lions of Albright College in the opening contests of the season.

Both baseball mentor Ralph Mease and tennis coach Claude Donmoyer are handicapped by the lack of practice that has been put in and have not had enough time to clearly evaluate their squads. Next to nothing is known of Albright's respective squads except that practices have been few for them as well as the Blue and White.

At present, the following men have survived the first "cut" by Coach Mease and are striving to be kept on the squad.

Catchers: Hank DiJohnson, Al Koenig, Herb Eckenroth, and Harold Kadel.

Pitchers: Charlie Miller, Alonzo Mantz, Fred Ford, Guy "Lefty" Euston, John Kennedy, James Loose, Larry Kinsella, Dick Knies, and Walters.

1st Base: Norm Bucher, Charlie Zimmerman, and "Buzz" Levick. 2nd Base: Rinso Marquette and Heisey.

Shortstop: Bobby Hess.

Third Base: Benny Penturelli, Jimmy McGraw, and Norm Lukens. Outfield: Richard "Shorty" Fields, Walter Hess, Floyd Becker, Walt Gage, Jake Wolfersberger, Jules Gallo, Bob Fisher, and Eckenroth.

The tennis candidates, who at the date this has been written, have not had a practice are William Miller, Robert Ulrich, Robert Early, Richard Hartman, Walter Womer, Donald Wolf, Bernard Goldsmith, Robert Shultz Jr., Richard Grimm, and St. Andrew Renner.

Returning from last year's squad are Howard Lebegern and Henry Miller.

Frosh Hop Success On Hershey Floor

On the evening of March 20, in the Hershey Community Building, the annual freshman dance was held. Titled the "Frosh Hop," it was carried off in traditional freshman style to the accompaniment of fine refreshments and noisemakers.

Pat Esposito, master of ceremonies for the evening, introduced Johnnie Adams, his band, and his vocalist, Nan Ulrich, talented sophomore from L.V.

In charge of refreshments, Ruth Gluck prepared a dazzling array of sandwiches surrounding a punch bowl. Bill Miller, Bob Schultz, Miriam Keller, Anna Light, Helen MacFarland, Phyllis Malz, Carl Gerberich, and Dave Miller did a commendable job on both decorations and refreshments.

Mary Jane Eckert And Miss Gillespie To Go To Detroit

Will Represent Conserv At Natl. Music Conference

Miss Mary E. Gillespie, conservatory dean, and Miss Mary Jane Eckert, a senior in the conservatory, will leave April 19 for Detroit, Michigan, where they will attend the Music Educators National Conference.

Miss Gillespie is representing the college as the state chairman of the pre-school committee. She also serves as chairman of the eastern section committee. This section covers eleven eastern states.

Miss Eckert has been honored by receiving one of the two eastern college chairmanships for the conference, the other position going to a student from the Juilliard School of Music.

Mary Jane will be chairman of the meeting of the college students. She will introduce the members of the panel who will discuss the question, "What is ahead for the first year teacher?" Among these members will be a state music supervisor, a graduate student, a city superintendent, and a first year teacher. The Juilliard representative will be moderator of the discussion.

Jiggerboard Announces Results of Election

Betty Ruth Jones, at an election held in North Hall on April 1, has been chosen by the women dormitory students to head the Women's Student Government Association next year. Erma Gainor was elected vice president, while Barbara Kleinfelter and Charlotte Rohrbaugh will fill the positions of secretary and treasurer respectively. Other members of the Jiggerboard will be Hattie Cook, Martha Miller, Dorothy Zink, and Barbara Metzger.

Prof. Light Presides Over Meeting Of Academy Of Science

Prof. V. Earl Light, president of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science, presided at the annual meeting of that organization in Grove City, Mar. 26, 27. During that time the Pennsylvania Science Talent Search and the Junior Academy of Science contests were conducted. The committee to serve as judges for these contests was appointed by Prof. Light. For seventeen of the twenty-five years that he has been a member of the organization, Prof. Light has held offices. Among those he has held are Secretary, Secretary-Treasurer, President-Elect, and President.

Basketball Resume

Scranton and Dickinson, the Dutchmen tasted defeat. The combined loss to these three clubs only amounted to 10 points; games which could have gone either way.

Not measuring up to par, the Dutchmen met defeat at the hands of Albright 47-45 as the Lions two man scoring combine of Ed Anlian and Ossie Kriebel led the visitors to a hard earned victory. Against Scranton the D-men, apparently suffering from the effects of a road trip, played their game only in infrequent spasms as the Royals won 55-52.

Dickinson was the next team to speeze out a three point victory over L.V. as they won by the narrow margin of 59-56, in one of the most bitterly contested games of the season. It was a rough-house affair that at times got beyond gentlemanly bounds as the two teams fought tooth and nail right down to the wire. The Valley really wanted to win this one and the defeat was hard to take. We're still not convinced that the Red Devils have the superior team!

Following this game, the Valley competely made the switch to fire house, run-and-shoot basketball; and it paid big dividends. We toppled Moravian 80-64 and smothered Juniata 90-62. Then the Dutchmen avenged previous defeats to Albright and Scranton by winning in two overtime games. Albright was beaten 70-66 and Scranton defeated 59-54. Winning ways were still maintained by the Valley against Susquehanna as we won 62-53.

Then came the game with Moravian. This game would decide who was to wear the Western Division crown of the Middle Atlantic Conference. Lebanon Valley lost 66-56. It was a real tear jerker! We wanted this game and wanted the title; but it just wasn't our night. The game was played at Bethlehem and a great many Valley rooters made the trip to see the contest. It was, without question, our most humiliating defeat of the season.

The Dutchmen opened with a rush and moved to the front at the quarter, 18-10. At the half Moravian had narrowed the gap to four points as the Valley still led, 30-26. Then it happened! L.V. unaccountably caved in on both offense and defense. At no time in the second half did the Dutchmen show the cleverness and certainty that was so apparent in the first half. Moravian then went ahead on drive and opportunism to lead at the start of the final period, 49-41. The Valley fought gamely back and midway in the last quarter they had pulled to within four points of the inspired Greyhounds, but Moravian was having one of its better nights and they just couldn't miss. Everything they threw up was good for two, and the Valley went down to defeat, 66-56.

In the final two L.V. games of the season, the Dutchmen were victorious in both.

They swamped the Baltimore Bees, 109-47, to run up a score that will long remain in the memories of Valley sports followers. Closing out the campaign on our home floor against F. and M., the Dutchmen, with Gemberling at the helm, trounced the Diplomats, 83-67.

This was the Lebanon Valley basketball team of 1947-48, a team that received great backing from the fans and upheld that crowd enthusiasm by putting on such a great performance as they carried high the Blue and White of L.V.C. To Coach Ralph Mease and the entire squad, especially the three seniors—Marquette, Gemberling, and Gamber, go the plaudits for making the season a big success. They were a great team. The Valley will never forget 'em.

Tuition And Boarding Rates Increased by Finance Committee

Rising Costs Of Operation, Improvement And Repair Necessitate Boost Of Prices

Claude R. Donmoyer, Secretary of the Finance Committee, has announced that several of the rates have been increased by action of the Executive and Finance Committees, in session in Harrisburg, December, 1947. These changes may be noted in the college catalog for the 1948-1949 term. Tuition has been increased $25.00 per semester. Increased costs of operation make an increased income essential in order to cover at least a part of the mounting expenditures. The faculty has been enlarged, and their salaries must be increased to meet the cost of living. The same is true of all employees on the campus. Costs of maintenance and repairs to buildings and equipment have increased tremendously, and many repairs and improvements are necessary because of the heavy traffic to which all buildings are being subjected. Much additional equipment has been purchased, and even more is contemplated.

The boarding rate will also be increased by $25.00 per semester. Although it is not the school's purpose to make a profit on the operation of the dining hall, neither should it be necessary to suffer a loss. This year the college experienced a meteoric rise in food costs and shall consequently show a loss. Next year there will be two more weeks of school than this year, each semester having 18 weeks instead of the present 17. These two additional weeks are, of course, an important factor to be considered with the increased boarding charge. The rate increase amounts to 14c per day.

Wig & Buckle Club To Present O'Neill's "Ah Wilderness!"

"Ah Wilderness!" currently in rehearsal, will be performed on the Lebanon Valley stage on the night of April 23. Tickets are on sale and may be purchased from any member of the club.

The plot centers around a young man who becomes involved with a curvaceous siren after his best girl has been forced by her father to write a letter telling the boy she no longer loves him.

The cast includes such experienced Thespians as Jim Murry, Ted Keller, Alvin Berger, and Sam Rutherford. Some of the newer talent includes Albert Moriconi, Dorothea Cohen, and Carmella Yannacci.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfgang Plan To Spend Summer In Europe

To Attend First World Council Of Churches

Mr. Marvin E. Wolfgang, instructor in the sociology department, together with Mrs. Wolfgang, plans to spend an interesting summer in Europe. They are sailing June 17 from New York on the Marine Jumper, and will spend six weeks of study and research at the University of Oslo, Norway.

After several weeks of travel through Sweden, Denmark, France, and England, they will go to Amsterdam, Holland, to attend the sessions of the first Assembly of the World Council of Churches, where representatives from 126 denominations and 39 countries of the world will meet. Mr. Wolfgang has been nominated as a delegate to the Assembly and will be one of the representatives of the Evangel-

Plans for New Gymnasium Revealed As Fund-Raising Campaign Nears End

Structure To Seat 2500; Will Include Social Room, Classrooms, And Offices

The campaign to raise funds for the new Physical Education Building for Lebanon Valley College will soon close. It is expected that by the end of this year all the money needed will be in. All of the money received thus far has been held intact for this building alone.

Because the structure would now cost more than twice as much as when the campaign began, the Board of Trustees will, at its next meeting, decide on one of these three alternatives:

1. Make plans to raise additional money required in order that the entire structure can be built at one time.

2. Postpone building with the hopes that in the not-too-distant future there might be a drop in building costs.

3. Proceed immediately with the building of the essential parts of the building, that is gym-floor, locker rooms, and showers, then add the rest at a later date. It is hoped that the third step will be undertaken as soon as possible.

The gym will be located at the northwest corner of the campus, facing White Oak Street.

The architect is Mr. C. S. Buchart, of York, Pa. His firm has drawn up the plans which have been approved by the Building Commission and Board of Trustees of Lebanon Valley College.

In a letter to LA VIE COLLEGIENNE, Mr. Buchart describes the building as it will be when finished. "This structure will be approximately 200 x 200 ft. square. It will house a large gymnasium which will seat approximately 2,500 people at exhibition games. This floor is so designed that it can be sub-divided for use by boys on one side and girls on the other. There will be separate shower facilities,

Govt. Conference Sidelights

For the second straight year Fred Tice served as Student Chairman of the L. V. C. delegation to the Intercollegiate Conference on Government and again did a swell job. In all his tasks—registering the boys at the Bellevue-Stratford, getting them up in the morning, checking their attendance at committee meetings, and keeping them well posted politically—Fred proved himself a real leader and a fine legislative “whip.” Well-groomed, personable Fred graduates this year and has a lucrative selling job lined up. If he should tire of that, the conservative wing of politics may gain a valuable leader. We are certain to miss him around the campus.

The job of State Chairman of the Labor Committee was so well handled by L. V. C.'s Al Fehr that it earned the praise of I. C. G.'s founder, Miss Genevieve Blatt, who said “it was among the best handled committees of the entire conference.” Al used his personality and his earthy humor generously to expedite consideration of highly explosive labor questions before argumentative, individualistic college students, numbering 62 on his committee. Al's job was generously praised by students from all over the state and, as a result, his fellow delegates are grooming him for the top spot of Conference Chairman next year.

Stocky, deep-voiced Henry Hostetter had the hardest job as member of the Rules Committee and worked past midnight two nights in a row. Hen proved to be an ideal mixer and was the best possible “ad” the Flying Dutchmen could have used in a state-wide meeting of this sort. Because of his maturity, scholastic ability, and enthusiasm, Hen appears to be a “natural” for the job of Student Chairman being vacated by the graduating Fred Tice.

Bob Moller got the shock of his life in the Foreign Affairs Committee. While debating ERP, a Wallace supporter branded him a “war monger.” Bob was so amazed that he “pulled a Gromyko.” Bob, that's learning politics the hard way.

Dick Eisenhower provided comedy relief at the Bellevue-Stratford by playing house detective with his Junior G-Man badge. The girls thought he was real cute.

Dick Moller began log-rolling immediately upon arrival at the hotel. At least a dozen girl delegates from Indiana State Teachers College surrounded him and listened enchanted to his “line.” Dick was finally “rescued” by his “superwolf” buddies, Jim Murray, Doug Earlich, Jim Gregg, Dick Eisenhower, Ray Kline, and Glenn Hall, who monopolized the girls thereafter. Yep, the L. V. C. “baby kissers” like their babies to be about twenty years of age.

Our three prima donnas among the delegates—“Fritz,” “Jerry,” and “Pom”—were rudely awakened one morning at 5:30 by the hotel operator. The story—several Seton Hill girl delegates decided that these embryo politicians needed a fresh start.

Jim Gregg's talented camera added a professional touch to the work of the L. V. C. group. If you want to see the finest collection of college politicians, ask Jim to show you some of the shots he took in Phila.

Roger McKinley impressed us all as being the “Silent Cal” Coolidge type of politician—silent and thoughtful. Beneath that quiet exterior, however, “Rog” has a keen mind and cannot be shaken in his convictions.

The L. V. C. delegation discovered that Penna. college students admire politicians that are forthright and statesmanlike. In the straw vote of presidential candidates, over 500 college students favored Stassen by 31% of the vote. Vandenberg was next with 24%, Eisenhower had 21%, Wallace had 9%, Truman had 8%, and Douglas was last with 6%. Taft and Dewey were not even nominated or considered by the group.

Future Sophomores Conduct Elections

The elections of the sophomore class of 1948-'49 were held on April 15 in Philo Hall. Elected as next year's president was William Miller. Vice president is Charles Garrett; secretary, Joyce Carpenter; and treasurer, Richard Schiemer. Don Yeatts was elected Student-Faculty Council representative.

Circulation Sparks

It was stated in the last issue of LA VIE that the credit for the new late hours in the Rec Hall belongs to the “Jiggerboard” and the Men's Senate. This is a mistake which needs correction. If credit is to be given, it should go to the Student Faculty Council.

During one seminar held during Religious Emphasis Week, certain suggestions were made to the Student Faculty Council. Among these was that of keeping the Rec Hall open later on Friday and Saturday evenings. Because the Student Faculty Council felt this suggestion to be a good one, it appointed Karl Miller and Sal Fiorello as a committee to visit President Lynch, and see if he would allow late hours. He did, on the condition that there should be chaperones in the Rec Hall during those hours. Dr. Lynch felt these chaperones should be members of the student governing bodies, “Jiggerboard” and the Men's Senate. It was then that Rinso Marquette and Be Frank were contacted, and only then that they knew anything at all about late hours. Therefore, any credit given, should be given to the Student Faculty Council, since it was that organization, working in the interest of the student body, that brought about the installation of late hours in the Rec Hall.

STUDENT FACULTY COUNCIL.

—O—

Ed. Note—LA VIE thanked the governing bodies for making it possible to keep the Rec Hall open (i. e. by chaperoning). We did not state that credit should be given them for the idea. Perhaps that was implied and we are sorry if we have slighted the Council.

Reflections

“Thirty-eight awards so what?” This verbal jewel issued from a cynical pedestrian disdainfully appraising a theater marquee which was advertising the motion picture, Gentleman's Agreement. Possibly this skeptic was not one of those included with the narrow confines of that select group known as “the drama critics,” but the fact remains that there has been a good bit of adverse comment on Gentleman's Agreement by the movie-going public.

Why so much dissatisfaction with this multi-Oscared film? If one admits that it is reasonably good entertainment, that it is competently acted and directed, just what is it that sets it apart from and above other motion-picture offerings of the year? Examination indicates the theme has its unusual aspect—a denunciation of anti-semitism. An admirable effort, but just how effective is it? What solution does it suggest? Does it emphasize the most troublesome aspect of intolerance?

As for the effectiveness of the picture one must, in the final analysis, agree that at best it is but a step in the right direction. It suffers primarily from its didactic tone, and as such is bound to elicit an unwanted reaction from an American public that has demonstrated on countless occasions that it dislikes being told what to do. EXPERT HAIRCUTTING

The Campus Is Talking About . . .

GANDER GOIN'S ON—Yep, folks, the “Bubble Dance” was a heap big success—and the reverse of the usual boy-girl routine seemed to make a hit all around. The following couples gave ample evidence that they enjoyed themselves hugely: (and in keeping with this theme, the boys' names will precede the gals) . . . Dick Pye, sporting a very large, gay corsage from his “escort”; Nancy Bowman; Kermit Keener and Vera Boyer, Cliff Rothgaber and Marian Millard; Art Bodden and Joanne Kessler; nice to see those brawny “sportsmen,” “Hank” DiJohnson and Pete Gamber, with Fay Hall and Elaine Frock, respectively. . . . Dottie Zink and Dave Wallace, happily receiving their bubbly gift, for being on the right spot at the right time. . . . Those hardy males, Sal Fiorello and Pat Esposito, tagging it (girls, girls, think of passing up inviting these two!)—Surprise couples—Don Fridinger and Opal Shumate—and Prof. Paul Fisher and Miriam Keller, looking slightly blissful. . . . Good old “steadies,” Jim Brulatour and Mary O'Donnell, John Marshall and Elaine Heilman, and Charlie Pomraning and “Be” Frank, all helped to keep this highly-successful affair moving along brightly. . . . Even the weather-man cooperated by furnishing a typically romantic setting, complete with the whole works of moon and brilliant stars. . . . Along this line, Pete Ely and Martha Matter furnished their own particular brand of “stars”—in their eyes, of course. . . .

NOTES FROM A LITTLE BLACK BOOK—The well-worn spot, right in the front of the central bulletin board in the Ad. Bldg. seems to be the unofficial office for important business, as well as a sort of “date bureau!” In fact, just prove it to yourself some day. . . . plant yourself in an inconspicuous spot (go on, we tried it, too!), anywhere between the hours of 11 A. M. and 1 P. M., and keep your eyes and ears open wide! Yes, indeed, proved to be mighty interesting! For example, you might spot Eddie Englehart, plus any other hard-working members of the Senior Class, gathering up loose ends of business for the swiftly-expiring school life. . . . again, you might see some well-known “wolves,” doing a little day-time prowling (no names mentioned). By and by, this aforementioned “spot” is but one of many—in fact, these purty, warm days, the whole campus is a general meeting place; judging from the looks of things, very soon the tennis courts will again buzz with action. Any day, rain or shine, you might see Rufina Balmer and Rinso Marquette, Ruth Billow and George Haines, Mary Daugherty and Dan Fraundfelder, plus many, many others walking hand-in-hand to and from North Hall.

Voice of the Valley

This summer the national Democratic and Republican conventions will be held in Philadelphia to nominate candidates for president. The delegates to these conventions will want to know who the majority of the people in their districts prefer, so that they can choose the strongest candidate. Opinion polls are conducted all over the country as one way of determining who the people want.

The students on our campus have voiced their opinions as to who they think will be good presidential timber. The results are as follows:

Total number of answers
Dewey	122	27.8%
Stassen	108	24.5%
Vandenberg	74	16.8%
Truman	42	9.5%
Wallace	24	5.5%
Warren	16	3.6%
Taft	12	2.7%
MacArthur	10	2.3%
Eisenhower	21	4.8%
No Opinion	16	3.6%
Miscellaneous	11	2.5%

Had Eisenhower been listed on the ballot, he would have probably been better represented.

There were many good suggestions for a name for the poll. “Voice of the Valley” was chosen because it best expresses just what the poll is supposed to be—the voice of the Valley. We thank all those who contributed and especially the inventor of “Voice of the Valley.”

Dutchmen Whip Diplomats; Drop Slugfest to Greyhounds

Pitching Fails In Moravian Contest; Miller Stars As Valley Averages Defeat

Combining the outstanding hurling of Charley Miller, a few lusty hits from the bats of Bob Hess, Shorty Fields, Hank DiJohnson, Charley Zimmerman, and Jim McGraw, and the ragged defense of the Diplomats' inner cordon, the Flying Dutchmen waltzed to an easy 11-4 victory over Franklin and Marshall. Charley Miller held an 11-0 lead going into the ninth and did not bear down too hard with the result that the "Dips" pushed across four runs in a dying cause on Monday.

Errors committed by the F. & M. third-baseman—no less than four—played a large part in the Valley victory, but timely hits were inserted at important spots. Jim McGraw lashed a triple in the fourth to drive in the first run and scored a moment later on Becker's tap to shortstop, via the pitcher. Fields and Marquette also contributed singles during this four-run spurge in the fourth.

Hess opened the seventh with a single to center field. Marquette and DiJohnson got on base safely on errors by the third-baseman. Hess scored and Charley Zimmerman smashed a triple, but was put out trying to leg it into a home run.

Charley Miller pitched great ball until the ninth, giving only four hits and setting down seven via the strike-out route.

The Dutchmen dropped their first game of the season on Saturday as the Moravian Greyhounds broke an 8-8 tie in the ninth to win 9-8. The manner in which the D-men lost the game was incredible. With two out and the bases cramed in the last of the ninth, Halkins, the Greyhound third sacker, lifted a towering fly into right center which spun off the glove of Floyd Becker and fell free to allow Moravian to score the winning run.

The ball-banging of both clubs accounted for 39 hits—17 for the Valley and 12 for Moravian. The Dutchmen's sticks really sizzled in the see-sawing sock fest as Marquette smashed a homer, Charlie Miller, pinch swinging for Walters, walloped a triple, and Jim McGraw chipped in with a double. Bob Hess, Shorty Fields, Chick Zimmerman, and Floyd Becker each got two or more hits.

L. V. put a four-run slug on the Greyhounds in the opening stanza as Rinso, the slick sticker of the Dutchmen, smacked a homer with two aboard. Moravian hopped on Kinsella to tie it up in the second 4-4. They went ahead in the fourth, added one more in the fifth and two in the sixth to lead 8-4. The D-men, bristling with power, came back for one in the seventh and three in the eighth to tie the score at 8-8.

Moravian then tallied in the bottom half of the ninth to win 9-8. In defeat, three pitchers toiled for the Valley. Larry Kinsella started, but was relieved by Walters, and Fred Ford finished up.

the dining hall, it probably will be necessary to restrict the facilities to full-time boarding students; however, should space be available for the accommodation of occasional patrons, non-resident students will be admitted, if permission is procured in the office, at the following rates:

Breakfast	$25

Room rates will remain the same as they have been for the present term.

With the Dutchmen

Knowing full well that three games do not make a season, we nevertheless insist that the Blue and White have quite a baseball team this spring.

However, we do concede the fact that the pitching staff leaves something to be desired. Charley Miller is back with all his "stuff" as is evidenced by his twirling in the Al-bright and F. & M. games. New-comer Fred Ford has shown plenty and is the one with the most promise. Al Mantz is as yet untried this year, and will have to acquire control to be of any help. Larry Kinsella had something on the ball against Moravian, but didn't seem to know quite where it was going. With a little control he might come through. Walters was none too impressive in his first appearance, but may show more on his next jaunt to the mound. Another new-comer, Jim Loose, is yet to be tested.

Otherwise the team seems to be set with Zimmerman, Marquette, Hess, and McGraw comprising the infield, Fields, Becker and Eckenroth the outfield, and Hank DiJohnson behind the plate. Replacements include Penturelli and Bucher in the infield, and Gage and Wally Hess in the outfield.

There is no telling how many games may be played before the next issue of this paper, as four games are scheduled for next week. In the short space allotted we can not do justice with regard to complete sports coverage.

With no practice to speak of, the tennis squad has participated in two matches, defeating Moravian last Saturday at Bethlehem, 5-2, and losing to F. & M. here this week by a lopsided 8-1 score. The boys deserve a hand, playing with only a semblance of practice. Lebegern, H. Miller, R. Grimm, and Womer, comprise the bulk of the squad that is to carry the colors of the Valley into 11 scheduled matches this spring. An even split is not at all impossible.

Men's Day Student Champs Whip Dorm Student Leaders

Basehore Leads Day Stud. Team to 36-33 Victory

Hail the champs! For the second consecutive year the men's day student champs, the seniors, took the measure of the men's dorm student champs, also the seniors, by a 36-33 count.

The finals took place in the Annville High School gym, Monday, April 12. Walt Mahoney was high scorer for the game, netting 13 points, but not enough to bring his team the victory. Bob Basehore with 12 and John Detweiler with 11, points led the scoring for the day student champs.

Comprising the lineup of the day students were John Detweiler, Bob Early, Bob Basehore, Dennis Funck, and John Paul Hummel. The vanquished dorm student champs, succumbing only after a great struggle, were represented by Walt Mahoney, Bob Beck, Fritz Delduco, Benny Penturelli, Jim McGraw, Al Palmieri, and Sam Ruth-erford.

In the preliminary game the Dorm Student all-stars assured Dorm basketball fans of at least an even break in the night's festivities by outpointing the Day Student all-stars by a 45-36 count.

Thus, another Axe-League season comes to a successful close—successful in that the usual number of cuts, bruises, and fights occurred. After absorbing two consecutive defeats, the Dorm Students will definitely be out for revenge come next season.

Professor Rutledge Conducts Glee Club And Band In Palmyra

Professor Rutledge recently conducted the glee club and concert band in a performance in Palmyra High School for the benefit of the Palmyra Rotary Club, which will apply the profits to a community project.

The program will be repeated in the Forum in Harrisburg at 3:00 p.m., Sunday, April 25. This concert is an annual affair for the two musical organizations and is sponsored by the Greater Harrisburg Evangelical United Brethren Ministerium. Anyone may attend and there will be no admission charge.

WAA Will Hold Annual Spring Hike

On Tuesday, April 27, the WAA will hold its annual spring hike. The purpose of the hike is to initiate new members into the organization. Election of officers for the following year will take place on the hike. All present WAA members, and any girl having earned a total of 200 athletic points throughout the year are invited to the hike.

Committees for the hike are: Place—Butch Bell, Carolyn Boedinghaus; Entertainment—Ruth Kramer, chairman, Betty Slifer, Ruth Light, Doris Thomas; Food—Janet Weaver, chairman, Ella Shultz, Be Frank, Elaine Frock; Publicity—Lillian Keller; Invitations—Irene Withers, Mary Fuhrman.

The WAA will hold its annual banquet in the college dining hall on May 12, at 6 P.M. Committees for the banquet are: Decorations—Elaine Frock, chairman, Erma Gainor, Opal Shumate, and Lillian Keller.

Two kinds of dollars

The Dollars that RUN the Business

These are the dollars you send to us every time you pay your telephone bill. They're the dollars that grow out of the nickels that you deposit when you use pay telephones. They're the dollars that we take in for providing the best possible telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

These dollars run the telephone business. They pay our taxes and our rent and our light and our heat. They pay wages and the benefits and pensions telephone employees enjoy. They pay interest to bondholders and dividends to stockholders for the use of their money.

Any of these dollars that have nothing to do after paying all that they have to pay—and there are never many—are put away for a rainy day.

The Dollars that BUILD the Business

These are the dollars—saved by school teachers, widows, farmers, business men, telephone men and women and other everyday people in all walks of life—with which telephone securities are bought.

With these dollars, new central offices are built and equipped, other central offices are enlarged, and all telephone equipment—switchboards, dial mechanisms, wire and cable, telephone instruments—are bought.

These are the dollars that build the business—that enable us to meet increasing demands for telephone service by expanding our facilities to provide it... that enable us to make the continual improvements that bring you the best possible telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

We must pay for the use of these dollars. Those who supply them expect us to keep them safe and to keep them productive.

Sociology Classes Visit Dauphin County Courthouse and Jail

Girl Students Are First Women In Cell Blocks

The combined Criminology and Social Work classes, under Mr. Marvin Wolfgang, enjoyed a highly interesting field trip April 1. The day-long trip included visits to the Dauphin Co. Courthouse, where the entire group attended several criminal court sessions and were later granted an interview by Judge Rupp in the Judge's chambers. Judge Rupp is an alumnus of Lebanon Valley.

Following this, the students were conducted on a tour through the Dauphin Co. jail by Warden Etter.

The last point of interest was a visit to the Pennsylvania Industrial School for Boys at White Hill, where these classes were privileged to inspect firsthand this modern and progressive institution, under the able supervision of Rev. Keller.

White Hill authorities informed the group that this was the first occasion on which women were allowed to visit the cell blocks of the institution.

Professor Freeland To Be Soloist At Annual Concert

Professor Merl Freeland will be the featured soloist in the college orchestra's annual spring concert which will be presented in Engle Hall, April 29. Professor D. Clark Carmean will conduct the orchestra in a varied program which will include:

Russlan and Ludmilla Overture
Glinka
Fourth Symphony, Finale
Tchaikowsky
Bruce Wiser, French horn soloist
Malaguena Lecuona
Melodie in F Rachmaninoff
Prelude in G Major, Rachmaninoff
Nocturne in C# Minor Chopin
Polonaise in A Flat Chopin

Debating Team Closes Successful Season

The Lebanon Valley debate season closed when Gettysburg College cancelled a dual debate to have been held on the Valley campus.

The Valley debaters, Marian Schwalm, Albert Moriconi, Douglas Earich, Elvin Walters, Arthur Bodden, and Frank Huff, more than held their own in debates with Lock Haven State Teachers, Juniata, Albright, Elizabethtown, and Temple University.

The only official decision this year was rendered in favor of Lebanon Valley College against Elizabethtown by a critic judge on February 24.

Return debates with E-town and Gettysburg Colleges to have been held on the Valley campus were cancelled by the other colleges as was a debate with Albright on their campus.

This first post-war season of forensic activity by the Valley was successful, but the Dutchmen look forward to an even better season next year when more students will be participating.

Rohrbaugh And Kreiser Speak To Chemistry Club

The Chemistry Club held its second meeting of the month on Tuesday, April 20, at 7:30 in the Chemistry Lecture Room. A movie, "Unfinished Rainbows," a technicolor history of aluminum, was shown. News was given by Charlotte Rohrbaugh.

On Tuesday, April 13, the Chemistry Club presented a movie, "Atomic Energy," an educational film made by the Encyclopedia Britannica. Wesley Kreiser presented a summary of the latest news in Chemistry.

A second field trip is planned for Tuesday, April 27. A group of approximately thirty Chemistry majors will journey to Baltimore, Md., where they will tour the plants of two industries — The American Smelting and Refining Co. and U. S. Alcohol Inc.

Pete Barcia To Portray Devil In Annual May Day Cavortings

Dr. Struble's "The Devil Is An American" Provides Basis For Traditional Spectacle

One of the most publicized and eagerly awaited traditions of Lebanon Valley College will be upheld this Saturday afternoon, May 8th.

The Annual May Day program, formerly handled by the junior conservatory pageantry class, has for the past two years been assigned to the girls' physical education instructress. Mrs. E. F. Drescher, with the student assistance of Mrs. Roger Keech and the invaluable cooperation of Professor Rutledge and the college band are producing what should be one of the most impressive May Days at Lebanon Valley.

The story under the title, "The Devil Is An American," is a product of Professor Struble's artistry. For his story Professor Struble has reached deeply into the pages of America's literary history and penned a story enriched by classic fictional characters. The devil who gives the three parts unity will be portrayed by Pete Barcia, the capable comedian, known as L. V.'s Al Jolson.

The first episode will find the devil in the early New England period where Jim Murray, as Daniel Webster, offers to defend Robert Meals, as Jabez Stone, who signed a contract in blood with the devil. The crowing of the cock marks the defeated exit of the devil and Jabez Stone with his charming wife, portrayed by Sazia Mieczkowska, dance in expression of their newly acquired freedom.

In the south on the lawn of a southern plantation the devil appears and upsets the gala dancing of the belles and their beaux. The devil who is looking for a female is intrigued by Carolyn Boeddinghaus as petite young Topsy. She innocently escapes his grasp and Joe Yeakel, as Simon Legree, appears

Plans Completed for Annual All-College Prom

The Junior Prom, to be held at the Zembo Mosque on the evening of May Day, should prove to be a colorful affair.

The dance floor will be lighted by a large silver ball placed in the middle of the floor. Around the rest of the auditorium will be placed colorful decorations to add to the charming atmosphere of the beautiful Mosque. The Conservatory's own Johnny Adams and band will provide the musical background.

Tickets can still be purchased from Beatrice Meiser, Esther Bell, John Marshall, Glenn Hall, or Alvin Hildebrand.

Seniors Complete Plans For Class Ball

Prompt Payment of Dues Urged by Class President

The Senior Class held an important meeting this morning at 11 o'clock for the purpose of electing permanent class officers. At this meeting it was also announced that the West Shore Country Club has been secured for the annual Senior Ball to be held Friday, May 14, instead of Saturday, May 15, as had been originally scheduled. Dancing will be from 9 till 12 to the music of Allen Shearer and his orchestra.

President Eddie Englehart also urged all members to pay their class dues as soon as possible. The deadline is May 12.

Announcements of the Commencement exercises will be available on May 21 from Eddie Englehart. Virginia Vought, class treasurer, should be paid for them before that date.

Be Frank and George Marquette have been appointed co-chairmen of the committee for class day. They have promised a delightfully entertaining program. Details are not yet available.

Glee Club to Perform At Graduation Exercises

The conservatory Glee Club will appear in the Forum in Harrisburg at the Penna. State Federation of Music Clubs Convention on Friday, May 7. The selections used will be the same as those rendered at the recent Glee Club concert in the Forum.

The ensemble will present musical selections for the May Commencement program, also. Among the numbers the group will do will be Leigh Hunt's famous "Abou Ben Adhem" set to music by Professor Emeritus Peter W. Dykema, who will receive an honorary doctorate from the college at the commencement exercises. The number, dedicated to Lebanon Valley College, includes obligato passages for the piano, flute, clarinet, French horn, and bassoon.

General Albert Wedemyer To Deliver Main Address At 79th Commencement

Other Highlights Of Weekend Will Include Baccalaureate Service, Class Day Program

Lebanon Valley College's Seventy-Ninth Commencement Exercises will take place on Monday, May 31, at 10:00 a. m., in the College Church. Heading the list of speakers will be General Albert Coady Wedemyer, who will address the graduating class and friends. General Wedemyer, a West Point graduate, served for approximately ten years in the Orient, including assignments in the Philippines, China and India. In 1946 he returned to the United States, but in the summer of 1947 was sent back to the Far East as a Special Envoy in order to make a survey of conditions in China and Korea.

Reverend Reuben H. Mueller, of Dayton, Ohio, will deliver the Baccalaureate Address on Sunday morning, May 30, at 10:30 a. m., in the College Church. Dr. Mueller is a graduate of North Central College and the Evangelical Theological Seminary, both of which are located in Naperville, Illinois. He is at present serving as Executive Secretary of Evangelism of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The Class Day Program will take place on Saturday, May 29, at 2:00

Clio And Philo Stage Anniversary Dance At New Brunswick

Soft lights, the music of Johnny Adams and his orchestra, and a scrumptious turkey dinner all contributed their share to make a most enjoyable evening for the 130 persons attending the annual Clio-Philo Anniversary Dance on Saturday, April 24, at the Hotel New Brunswick, in Lancaster, Pa.

Clio, which was celebrating its 75th anniversary, had elected Ruth Whitman, senior chemistry student, anniversary president. Joyce Meadows, president of Clio Society, joined Miss Whitman in welcoming to the dance fifteen alumnae of the society.

Miss Alma Light and Mrs. Lillian Shroyer were presented with gifts by the anniversary president for being the persons present who were members of Clio for the longest period of time.

Robert Grover, president of Philo, welcomed the alumni of his organization to the affair. Robert Beck was Philo's Anniversary President.

Two special Dances were held during the evening—an elimination dance and a spot dance. Bob Sheetz and his guest were awarded prizes for being the last couple in the elimination dance. Henry Di-Johnson and Anna Fay Hall danced off with the prizes for the spot dance. The prizes were presented by the Clio Anniversary President, Ruth Whitman.

Clio Entertains Delphian Members At Demonstration

Clionians entertained the members of Delphian Society at a cosmetic demonstration on May 3, in Clio Hall. Miss Heffner, Annville representative for Luzier's products, experimented with Ruth Keech and Millie Neff. Different types of products for various types of skins were exhibited and demonstrated by Miss Heffner.

Immediately following the demonstration an announcement was made concerning the officers for next year. They are: Dottie Zink, President; Charlotte Rohrbaugh, Vice President; Betty Miller, Secretary; Janet Eppley, Treasurer; Jane Reed, Student-Faculty Representative; and Louise Light, Pianist. According to a new amendment, all these officers will hold their offices for an entire school year.

Gockleys Announce Birth of Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. David W. Gockley have announced the birth of a daughter, Pamela Joan, at the Harrisburg Hospital, April 30. Mr. Gockley is Director of Public Relations and Religious Activities for the college.

Both the mother and her 7-pound, 10-ounce daughter are doing well, but, according to his secretary, the father is still in a state of semi-shock. The child is their first.

FREE PERIOD?

WE SEEM to recall that the open period at eleven o'clock Thursday morning was originally designated as a time for meetings of the four classes and the campus organizations. It was, and still is, difficult for the clubs and societies to count on holding meetings at night because of the difficulty of the day students in coming in the evening, and also because of recitals, rehearsals, vespers, and other such obstacles to maximum attendance, not to mention school work. This literal gift from the administration filled an urgent need, and for a while the system worked fairly well.

Recently, however, it has been infringed upon in several ways. Of course, there is always the disinclination of the student to bestir himself to attend the meetings, but he does appear to be able to bestir himself to go to the various forms of entertainment which have been presented in Engle Hall during the past few weeks. The administration is clearly not to blame for the students' laziness, but it contradicts its original purpose in making the period open by scheduling the entertainment. Another infringement is the holding of classes at this time. We concede the practicality of this before vacations, but during the rest of the year it is unfair for some to take advantage of this as a means for escaping undesirable late-afternoon and Saturday classes while the majority cannot do so. If these things interfere, as we think, with the workings of the organizations, then some correction is indicated.

Perhaps the period should be abolished.

Perhaps we need more free periods.

Perhaps this is a problem for the Student-Faculty Council.

SPEAKING OF MONEY

DURING the academic year which is currently approaching a frenzied climax, what with exams and social functions, some changes were made that most of us have taken for granted. Many of these changes were somewhat intangible (who could sum up our "school spirit" or the lack of it), but if you are interested in facts and figures, here are a few that represent one of the aspects of Lebanon Valley which we usually know little about: the cost of capital improvements.

Following is a partial list of expenditures made by the college (excluding current expenses such as salaries and maintenance costs) during this school year:

Investment in Washington Hall, including foundation and basement, lab tables, linoleum, lighting, etc.	$ 20,000
Equipment for Washington Hall, including microscopes, lab equipment, recreation hall furniture, classroom furniture, office furniture, etc.	8,000
Improvement of Conservatory basement	10,000
Fluorescent lighting throughout Administration Building, and linoleum in all halls and stairways	5,000
Dormitory and classroom furniture	4,000
Purchase of homes for faculty families	17,500

In addition, there was the cost of redecorating the interior of some of the dormitories, new paving for campus walks, resurfacing tennis courts, a new roof on South Hall, new stoves in the kitchen, new tractor, new mowing units, and weatherstripping of dorms and Administration Building.

... AND THAT'S NOT ALL

During the summer work will be started on several more projects destined to make LVC a better place in which to live and study. Following are a few figures of anticipated expenditures, provided by the Treasurer's Office:

Installation of new boilers and stokers in the heating plant (the old ones barely made it this year)	$ 28,000
Purchase and installation of two new organs for the Conservatory	16,000
Development of the new athletic field where rough grading is now in progress	40,000
Purchase of an additional faculty home	5,000

Moreover, there will be general salary increases for the faculty, as well as all campus employees, maintenance help, kitchen help, etc.

All of this should be borne in mind by those of us who are prone to forget that materially, at least, Lebanon Valley College is definitely moving ahead!

THE PENNWAY

Curtain Calls

By MRS. JAMES G. STARR

On April 23 (Shakespeare's birthday, by the way) the Wig and Buckle Dramatic Club of Lebanon Valley College presented Eugene O'Neill's comedy, "Ah, Wilderness," in Engle Hall. The audience, though not a capacity one, was appreciative and impressed by the smoothness of the performance. The coaches, Dr. George Struble and Mrs. Ralph Mease, deserve great praise for the very finished production.

"Ah, Wilderness," in contrast with O'Neill's more common, unpleasant-ending tragedies, is a popular, pleasant, sentimental comedy. It is an agreeable tale of a typical American family with members and problems enough to afford a good acting vehicle. There is the wise father, the kindly mother, the perennially drunk uncle, the maiden aunt, the eighteen year old son passionately in love with a neighbor's daughter, to mention only the chief characters. The situation is never too bad, and the play has great appeal for the average audience.

The chief problem is created when the girl friend's father finds letters with scraps of verse by Swinburne from Richard in his daughter's bureau drawer and forces her to end the romance. In retaliation, Richard visits a barroom, makes the acquaintance of a questionable lady, and gets drunk—serious business in the eyes of the family. But a reconciliation is effected by the lovers in a pale blue scene amid lots of moonlight and poetry, and everything is beautiful and romantic in nice contrast with the realism which has gone before.

This contrast of realism and romanticism is characteristic of O'Neill. There is no antithesis between romantic material and realistic treatment, for the latter corrects and adjusts the former.

The cast was remarkably well selected and balanced. Shakespeare himself would have been pleased with the clarity of enunciation and the fine voices, not to mention the acting and facility with the lines.

Nat Miller, the wise but not too cultivated father, was played by James Murray, most convincingly perhaps in the clever scene in which he advises his son about life. Jane Reed was a somewhat restrained, graceful Essie, pleasant to watch and to hear. Dick, the eighteen year old, poetry-quoting son (who may be the ghost of O'Neill himself at eighteen), was excellently interpreted by Ted Keller. He quoted Swinburne like a true poet, or an ardent teen-ager, and was just gauche enough as the uninitiated in the barroom scene. George Sanborn played the older brother with sophistication; Carmela Yannacci, the young sister, with great charm, and Robert Eiegenbrode, the kid brother, with the proper innocence. Some of the finest acting of the evening was the sympathetic interpretation of Uncle Sid, the perennial drunk, by Francis Heckman. (Overheard in the rear, "Why is it that L. V. C. men do their best acting in these roles?") Elaine Heilman reached real drama during the dinner scene, when, as Lilly, she accused the whole family of helping with Sid's undoing. Muriel, the girl friend, was sweetly and romantically portrayed by Ruth Peiffer. Good character parts were done by Paul Kauffman, as David McComber, Muriel's infuriated father; Harry Hoffman, as Wint Selby, the roue; Katherine Wersen as Belle, the harlot; Dorothea Cohen as

The Campus Is Talking About . . .

CLIO-PHILO DINNER-DANCE—A superb dinner, splendid program, and fine music added up to an unforgettable evening of conviviality and pleasure—where?—Why, the wonderful dance at Hotel New Brunswick, which climaxed a successful season of Clio-Philo activities. Everyone fortunate enough to have been present thoroughly agreed that this affair will be difficult to surpass on all counts. . . . Among those who so agree were several "surprise" couples, in addition to those whose names have been so often linked together, and mentioned so frequently in this column as to almost have become permanent fixtures! . . . These "new-o's" included: Etta Rae Miller and Bob Early, Phyllis Dale and Dale Synder (what, no hills?) . . . Vera Boyer, back with Fred Fore; Nancy Meyer so happy to be reunited with her Russ Gingrich (future Doctor). Anna Fay Hall and "Hank" DiJohnson smilingly receiving their gifts as "spot dance" winners—wonder what he'll do with the little black book? Elimination dance winners Bob Sheetz and his cute home-town gal. . . . Handsome-couple-honors should really go to Anne Louise Hartz and Bill Miller—and, of course, May Queen Mary Jane Eckert and Bob Streepy (future Mr. and Mrs.) . . . Nancy Bright and Richard Hartman seemed to have a lot to say to each other! Anniversary President of Clio, Ruth Ann Whitman, and Philo President, Bob Grover, can indeed be proud of their efforts to make this an outstanding dance. Towering Ray Kline and Tiny Anna Kreider partners for one dance. Each came with their usual escorts, however!

BROWSINGS—Congratulations to the cast and producers of "Ah Wilderness," also to all the "behind the scene" people who made such a successful production possible.

Engagements announced recently are South Hall's dorm president Milie Neff to Business Ad. senior Robert Beck; and quiet Jeanne Hisner's to alumni Robert Kern. Best wishes from the column, couples.

"Wouldn't be a last effort without mentioning Fritz, the Senator, Delduco. Ask him and he'll tell you he's "out," which means out with South Hall gals when translated. Pat Riihilouma remains the regular with Sazia Mieczkowska as a side, but definite, interest. That's right, isn't it, Fritz?

Under the category of perfect weekends comes Henry Deens' and Bob Miller's jaunt to New York City. Do get them to tell you about it, and then try and stop 'em!

The former editors of this paper, Ted Keller and R. Baker, have taken to writing stories about—you guessed it—each other, with some ex's of theirs thrown in for feminine interest. Nice pastime, what?

Must admit that Smitty (John Charles, that is) and Mim Keller make a nice looking couple, but who's going to take Prof. Fisher to the dances?

Ever hear of George Alwood? Well, he's the guy who does such a swell job on drums, and just to broaden his horizons, he's taken to learning about the telephone game a la one of Lebanon's own operators.

Dave-oo Fleischer couldn't stay away from our campus for long, so he returned a few days ago to see if the P-way still served coffee, and to enjoy Harry's other forms of amusement, or is it amazement? Joe Kania dropped by, also, still feeling like the young stallion which he is rapidly outgrowing.

Not mentioned, and yet not forgotten by our reporters, are Charlie Tome, faithful LA VIE sports editor, and his Sidney Garverich, and outstanding cornetist Ralph Downey and Mary Tillson; Ginny Vought and "Sleepy" Widmann.

Parting time now, all you lovely people—To those who weren't mentioned often through no fault of their own, better luck next semester; to the old faithfuls, keep up the good work; you've been good copy. Happy Prom-ing—Good luck on the finals, and here's to bigger, and shall I say, better dirt columns. It's been fun, and let's keep it gay!

Reflections

DEAR SIRs:

In answer to your column, "Reflections," of Thursday, April 22, 1948, I wish to object to the way the writer of that column reviewed Gentleman's Agreement.

Apparently (sic) the writer of "Reflections" does not know the extent to which the Jewish people are being persecuted, here in America, and abroad. In fact, I would go as far as to say that the column seemed to have an anti-semitic color to it.

My reason for saying this is due to the fact that in that article the writer tries to bypass the problem at hand by bringing to the front the problem of the Negro. In doing so he stated, "Despite the revolting aspects of anti-semitism, the Negro problem poses a much more explosive situation. . . ."

True, the problem of the Negro is great, but it lies in one section of our great democratic country, namely the South.

On the other hand, the problem of the Jew and anti-semitism is world wide, not just in one particular section of one particular country.

What people are being allowed to wander aimlessly in Europe under the classification of D. P.'s, the Jews or the Negroes? What people are not being allowed to enter a land which has been promised to them for centuries, the Jews or the Negroes? What people are now fighting for that land, the Jews or the Negroes?

—An Ardent Reader.

Objections sustained. . . . but with a note of explanation. Reflections makes no attempt to minimize the despicable aspects of anti-semitism.

Dutchmen Annex Fifth Victory As Miller Twirls Fourth Win

Mease Men Triumph Easily Over E-Town
McGraw And Gage Showing Way With Bat

Riding to victory on the stout right arm of Charlie Miller, Lebanon Valley's Flying Dutchmen recorded victory number five Saturday afternoon as they routed Elizabethtown, 5-1. "Ussie," whizzing an assortment of fast balls and curves, set E-town down with five hits as his mates, paced by Walt Gage and Jim McGraw, whacked E-town, pitching for nine hits and five runs.

Miller showed plenty of everything. His curve service was especially tasty. He struck out nine and held E-town to a single tally in the fifth inning.

Jim McGraw supplied the power that sent the Valley into the lead in the second inning. McGraw mauled a screaming triple to deep right center that scored Chick Zimmerman, who had walked. The Valley added another run in the bottom of the third when Walt Gage sent a dribbler to third and beat out a poor peg to the bag. Miller laid down a beautiful bunt that went for a hit and sent Gage to third, and Walt scored as Hess was being thrown out short to first.

Then the Dutchmen staged a two run rally in the fourth that comprised such impressive ingredients as an overthrow, stolen base, error, walk and a solid single. DiJohnson opened the frame when he reached first safely on an error and went to second on the overthrow. Zimmerman whiffed and McGraw smacked a roller between the third sacker's legs which scored DiJohnson from second. Becker walked and then Gage came through with a solid shot to right which scored McGraw for the Valley's third run.

E-town came back in the fifth when Lichty tripled on a low liner to left center and raced home on Ear Hess' double to left. Miller got all three batters this inning on strikeouts. After Lichty had tripled "Ussie" struck out the next two batters, then gave out a double and whiffed the last batter.

It was Gage again in the sixth who supplied the plate punch. Chick Zimmerman opened with a hot single through the middle. Becker walked before McGraw went down swinging and then Walt whacked a bouncer between third and short to score Zimmerman from second.

The Valley breezed through the last three innings, as Miller became stronger as the game progressed. "Ussie" added the finishing touches in the final frame when he struck out the last two men to face him.

Betrothal Of Senior L.V. Couple Announced

Mrs. Elsie A. Neff, of 188 East South Street, York, Penna., announces the engagement of her daughter, Mildred Arlene, to Robert Franklin Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Beck, of Ephrata, Penna.

Millie is a senior in the Conservatory, and is planning to teach music after graduation. Bob, a senior in the Business Administration course of the college, plans to take graduate work at Temple Graduate School.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Greyhounds Beat Valley 4-2; L.V. 8-2 Over Mt. St. Mary's

Fore and Loose Pitch.
Biff Gallo Pinch Hits

The Moravian College Greyhounds continued to cast their evil spell over the Flying Dutchmen when they downed the Dutchmen 4-2 to score their second victory of the season at the expense of the Valley. Before a fair crowd of Valley faithful and beneath cloudy skies, the Greyhounds had one big inning, the second, which produced 3 runs, to hand L.V. their third loss of the season.

Fred Fore, a big blond freshman flinger, pitched 8 hit ball for the Valley and but for a combination of circumstances would have achieved a deserved victory. As it turned out, Fred looked as good as a losing pitcher ever looked. He shot strikeout bullets at Moravian all afternoon and compiled a whiff list of eleven strikeouts, getting two each in the first, third, fourth, fifth, and seventh, and one in the sixth. Of the eight hits Fred gave up, five of them squeezed through the right side as though the balls had eyes.

Lebanon Valley tallied the first run of the game in the initial frame. Shorty Fields was hit by a pitched ball, sacrificed to second by Bob Hess, and after Marquette fled out to center DiJohnson got the only extra base blow of the game when he blasted a booming triple to deep center to score Fields.

Moravian quickly went ahead in the top of the second as they put together 3 singles and an error to score 3 runs. With two men on the following 2 hits, Roger Doll, Greyhound pitcher, sent a toppler to short which Hess bobbled and all hands were safe. With the sacks soaked another roller to short produced Moravian's first run. Then Stengele lined a single to center to drive in two more runs.

L.V. added another run in the fourth when Becker strolled. Walt Gage beat out a roller to third and Fore bashed a screaming single to right to score Becker. Biff Gallo continued his sensational pinch-hitting when he slapped a sharp single through the middle—but Gage, rounding third going full throttle missed the sack, and was called out to end a Valley rally.

Moravian continued to heed opportunity's sharp knock when they scored run number four in the top half of the sixth. Following two successive ground singles to right, Fore did some commendable clutch pitching and appeared to pull out of the jam. With runners on first and third, Fred made the next two batters hit into the dirt and had two away via outs from short to first and pitcher to first. But then Lobb stole home to add the final tally on a questionable play.

The D-men made another bid to pull the game out of the fire in the home half of the seventh but failed to score. Hess sent a sharp single through the middle after Gallo had fled out to left. Marquette lined out to short and DiJohnson came through with his second hit, a blazing single to right, but the rally fizzled when Zimmerman went out, pitcher to first.

Valley 8, Mt. St. Mary's 2

Making his first start in college ball when he scored an 8-2 triumph over Mount Saint Mary's, Jim Loose turned in some corking chucking to register the third win for the Men-of-Mease. Loose, a rookie righty who fed the MSM batters a mixture of fast and slow stuff, was backed up by some lusty hitting as the Valley pounded out 8 runs after the visitors had scored twice in the first.

The Valley's big rally came in the second when no less than 11 Dutchmen came to bat. Becker opened with a ground single through the middle. Not content with that, Floyd stole everything but the ball. He swiped second, stole third after Gage walked, and then stole home.

Loose helped the cause by bunting safely toward third. Shorty Fields was hit by a pitched ball to load the bases, and Bob Hess walked to force in the fourth run. Marquette lifted a towering fly to left which fell for a single to score Loose and Fields. The St. Mary's pitcher couldn't find the plate at a basement china counter, and DiJohnson walked. This hilarious act continued when Hess scored on a wild pitch, but three Valley batsmen fled out to end the inning.

Jules Gallo continued to hit in grand fashion. Coming in as a pinch hitter for Fields in the bottom of the third, Biff banged a double to left center to drive in the Valley's final run. Next time up he singled sharply down the left line, and completed a perfect day when he beat out a hit to deep short his last time at bat.

With the Dutchmen

Our Dutchmen have been able to play only eight of their ten scheduled games up to this point, and leaving them at this point, we cannot draw a true balance sheet of their accomplishments.

At this point their record stands at 5 wins and 3 losses, or a .625 percentage, good in anybody's league. Two of those games have been dropped by 2 runs and the other by a single tally. The Dutchmen show plenty of that old spirit out there on the field and are well worth watching. It appears that the scheduled Juniata games have been washed from the books. Should no more rain be forthcoming, the Blue and White will close out their season with a total of 14 games played. We see victory ahead in all but the Lafayette game. That would give them a season's record of 10 wins and 4 losses. This is altogether possible in view of the improved pitching which Coach Ralph Mease has been getting lately. Just when Coach Mease thought all he had to count on were Miller and Fore, young Jim Loose came through with a well-pitched game against Mt. St. Mary's, winning 8-2, and big Marsh Gemberling showed his arm and said he was ready for duty. He was scheduled to go against Kutztown on Tuesday of this week.

Outstanding among Valley baseball newcomers this year is Freddy Fore, 5' 11" tall, 22 years old, ex-McConnellsburg High School athlete, who has become quite a pitcher. Fred is a sophomore and will probably take over the No. 1 pitching slot next year as Charley Miller graduates this summer. While in high school Freddy was a member of the baseball, basketball, track, and soccer teams. Fred spent last year at Kutztown and the Harrisburg Area College. He has been tantalizing opposing batters all year with his drops, curves, and knuckle balls, but has been pitching in just about the toughest luck possible. In 23 innings he has given up just one earned run and yet has been charged with 3 losses against 0 victories. Fred is leading the Dutchmen twirlers in strikeouts with 21 in 23 innings, while Charley Miller has 20 in 35 innings. Fred has allowed only 15 hits and 6 bases on balls in those 23 innings, which isn't bad pitching in any man's league.

Saturday's game with Albright should be a thriller, and with Charley Miller on the mound the Valley's chances for victory look very good. At least, we think so.

The Valley tennis squad has yet to hit its stride, losing 6 out of 7 matches. With only 4 matches remaining on the docket, the best our boys can do is pull up to a respectable 5 and 6 record for the season. Howard Lebegern and Henry Miller have been the most consistent winners for the Valley. A victory over the Lions this Saturday would atone for several defeats.

With this issue we take leave of you till next fall. Let's root our Flying Dutchmen on to victory in the final ball games and tennis matches this spring, and come back refreshed in the fall, ready to cheer Andy Kerr, and an almost completely returning football squad on to a successful gridiron season.

Good luck, Ralph and Andy.

Getting Down to Fundamentals

THESE PEOPLE ARE TELEPHONE EMPLOYEES, building a telephone system.

Not a real one, it's true, but a table-top replica that illustrates the fundamental problems which management meets every day in planning, financing, developing, and expanding a telephone system such as the one that serves your home town.

They raise miniature telephone poles. They string miniature telephone lines between homes and stores and the central office. They plot the changes required when a new telephone is installed . . . when a subscriber moves . . . when additional lines are needed in outlying sections of town. And they keep representative records of the money involved: where it comes from, how it is used, and how repaid.

Such training in the fundamentals of the business, as well as in technical matters, is part and parcel of a telephone career. It is background for good management . . . and good management, by trained and experienced employees, helps provide you with the best possible telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

ism, but maintains, nevertheless, that it is not the most dangerous phase of intolerance in America today. Furthermore, the Negro problem is definitely not a situation peculiar to the Southern States, as almost any Negro in Pennsylvania will affirm. The condition of the displaced persons in Europe is pitiful and demands some action; possibly partition is the answer, but several million Arabs (who have an equally valid claim) are quite emphatic in their objections that it is not. In any event, although the Palestine question merits the consideration of America, it is hardly an aspect of intolerance within America, and seems rather far removed from the discussion of Gentleman's Agreement as entertainment or effective social propaganda.

Twelve Seniors Elected To Phi Alpha Epsilon

Twelve seniors have attained membership in Phi Alpha Epsilon, an honorary society for seniors who have maintained an average grade of 88 or better during their first three and one-half years of college. escorting Marycarol Salzman, the high yaller gal. After some bartering the Devil is once again defeated by the freedom of this wench.

Jim Yingst, as Peter Cartwright, the saddle bag preacher, defends Joanne Kessler as Annie Oakley, and saves her from the devil. How the crow of the cock and the extinguishing of the fires in hell add up to the ultimate ruination of the Devil will provide the element of suspense which may all be cleared by the payment of fifty cents on Saturday afternoon, May 8th, weather permitting.

This year the May Pole dancers are returning to their effective evening gown attire. Student-elected May Queen, Mary Jane Eckert, with her court of seniors consisting of Millie Neff, Joyce Meadows, Mary Jane Flinchbaugh, Betty Frank, Elaine Heilman, Virginia Vought and Elaine Frock as maid of honor, will preside over the festivities.

Prof. Rutledge Conducts At Lititz Spring Festival

Professor Edward P. Rutledge was guest conductor at the Fifth Annual Spring Festival in Lititz, Pa., on April 29.

Professor Rutledge conducted a forty-voice Glee Club and a fifty-piece band composed of Lititz students.

State Sec'y of Internal Affairs To Speak Here

On Monday, May 10, at 2 p. m., the Honorable William Livengood, Secretary of Internal Affairs, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, will appear in Engle Hall to give an address particularly directed to students majoring in the Economics and Business Administration Department, but also of considerable interest to all students of the college. Mr. Livengood is appearing at the request of Mr. Lochner, the two having been former classmates at Dickinson School of Law.

Mr. Lochner Attends Political Convention

Mr. Lochner attended the spring meeting of the Pennsylvania Political Science and Public Administration Association held in the Harrisburger Hotel, Harrisburg, Pa., on April 23 and 24. On Friday evening at the opening dinner session a majority of Governor Duff's Cabinet was present.

At Saturday morning's session a round table discussion was conducted under the chairmanship of Dr. Brewster, Department of Political Science at Pennsylvania State College, on the subject, "The Introductory Course in Political Science and Research Opportunities in Pennsylvania State and Local Government."

At the afternoon session, Dr. Harter, University of Pennsylvania, served as the chairman of the panel in a discussion on "Political Party Techniques in 1948."

The meeting was well attended and represented by the social science departments of most of Pennsylvania's colleges and universities.
